

Gubernatorial Hopefuls Point Fingers At Exon

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Nebraska's three gubernatorial candidates squared off Wednesday in a free-swinging debate which centered on the recent controversies over contracts negotiated by the Exon administration.

The 90-minute joint appearance was telecast on the Nebraska Educational Television Network Wednesday night following an afternoon taping.

Both Republican nominee Richard Marvel and petition candidate Ernest Chambers used their opening statements on the program to point accusing fingers at Democratic Gov. J. James Exon.

'Political Cronies'

One of the governor's "Political cronies," Mike Jackson of Omaha, "will become a millionaire at taxpayers' expense unless the Legislature steps in to stop" a lease arrangement for Department of Labor-office space in Omaha, Marvel charged.

And "friends of the governor's appointees" will benefit from a lighting contract approved for the Department of Roads, he said.

"How many more of these kind of deals, Governor Exon, are there?" Marvel asked.

Chambers said he contracts may not be illegal, but they are "morally and ethically questionable."

asked: "Is this the businesslike administration you want to continue?"

Exon said his opponents are engaging in "some rather scurrilous last minute campaign tactics." Exon accused Marvel, in particular, of "a mud-slinging campaign."

'No Control'

The Labor Department lease was "negotiated by a civil service employee over whom I have no control," the governor said.

The manner in which the Roads Department contract was negotiated follows the usual pattern of state government service agreements, he said. "As far as I know, nothing wrong has been done," Exon declared.

Nevertheless, he said, "I'll investigate to see if we can get cheaper space in Omaha."

The three candidates met for their third and final joint appearance before next Tuesday's election in a polite, but restrained, atmosphere. They exchanged first-name greetings in the studio prior to the taping session.

Exon concentrated on his four-year record in office and pointed out differences among the candidates.

Both of his opponents favor issuance of highway bonds, he said. "I oppose deficit financing," he declared.

Marvel favors the 1974 state school aid bill which also goes to a vote on Tuesday, the governor noted. Exon opposes it, arguing that it represents "an unfair shifting of the tax burden."

Under the law, the governor said, "the man that owns the most property will receive the largest relief."

Chambers also opposes the law, describing it as "a thinly disguised tax measure masquerading as an aid to education bill."

Chambers said the entire tax system needs to be revamped, with reinstitution of a tax on intangible property, a shifting of more of the burden to corporations and "wealthy individuals," and repeal of the state sales tax.

Marvel said the new law will help reduce property taxes and it "has a chance of improving the quality of education in this state."

Exon and Marvel continued their running battle over who is the fiscal conservative.

The governor has opposed past actions reducing property taxes and the state income tax rate, Marvel said.

Used 50 Vetoes

Marvel and the Legislature have "consistently gone beyond" Exon's budget recommendations, the governor said. Exon said he needed to employ 50 vetoes to hold down legislative spending in the past four years and retain tax rates at their current levels.

Chambers refused to "get into the stingy contest," promising to "spend for people" once the tax system is restructured.

If he is elected, Chambers said, "you will see Nebraska take off like a jet plane toward social justice and equality before the law."

His campaign has been skimpily financed, Chambers said, whereas his opponents have spent large sums of money packaging their candidacies "like puffed wheat."

That product, he suggested, is "full of air, but of little nutritional value."

Ghosts Here?

By H. J. ANDERSON
Star Staff Writer

Young citizens will make light of Halloween spooks and ghostly legends in pursuit of candy and pranks tonight.

Others in Lincoln feel more serious about psychic happenings and things that go bump in the night.

One is Mrs. Marie Wilson, a student of extra sensory perception (ESP).

Mrs. Wilson said the "sixth sense" is "not nearly as difficult to develop as the power of speech."

Mrs. Wilson, who teaches health in Lefler Junior High School, said extra sensory perceptions in children are stifled by parents who shrug them off as "wild imagination."

She said she hopes to work with a doctor from the Menninger Clinic in Topeka, Kan., on side-effects of bio-feedback.

Bio-feedback is a new medical technique which uses machines to help patients recognize physical signals from their bodies, to better locate and treat sickness.

Bio-feedback patients are suddenly turned on to other sensory information from all over, Mrs. Wilson said, and doctors are beginning to think they must deal with that.

Lincoln's two universities have long had ghosts, according to legend.

The Temple Building, where the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Drama Department is housed, is haunted by the ghost of a young man, a secretary in the building said.

One story says it's a man who fell to his death while working to build the Temple. Another says it was a male student who fell to his death from catwalks above a theater in the building.

In any case, strange crashes, music and lights are witnessed by late-night visitors.

And a former music instructor at Wesleyan University reportedly haunted an old administration building, torn down in 1973.

A Wesleyan office worker said she saw the former instructor, Clara Urania Mills, bending over files in 1963 in what had been Miss Mills' office 50 years earlier.

What's more, the secretary, Mrs. Coleen Butterbaugh, said it happened during an "apparent time lapse because the grounds outside the office window were those of the campus, also fifty years earlier.

A book, "Irene Hughes on Psychic Safari," recounts tales of three haunted houses visited by the psychic, Miss Hughes, during a 1970 visit to Lincoln.

Small Saudi Force Eyed

(c) Washington Star-News

Washington — After a six-month Pentagon survey, United States experts are advising Saudi Arabia to gear its armed forces for the next 10 years to a regional defense role, clearly more limited than the forces either Israel or Iran can field today.

This judgment emerges from an account of the Pentagon survey that was recently leaked from State Department sources. The arms study itself was first disclosed officially in April and then formalized in June in a joint U.S.-Saudi Arabian communiqué.

The study was initiated in March at the Saudis' request and three months later was described as concerned with "modernization" of the Saudi armed forces. A joint commission on security affairs, headed on the U.S. side by Assistant Secretary of Defense Robert Ellsworth, was also announced then, with the understanding that its first formal meeting would take place this fall.

The commission has now been scheduled to begin its work during the week of Nov. 10, when Ellsworth and George S. Vest, the top State Department official in the military aid field, are to meet their Saudi counterparts in Jiddah.

Despite published reports that the impending meeting will seal a multi-billion-dollar U.S.-Saudi arms deal, the probability is that the officials will do no more than discuss generalities of an arms supply program, leaving all specifics for later.

The survey, portions of which were leaked last week to Knight Newspapers, mentions no dollar amounts and recommends no specific types of military equipment.

Rather, insist high-ranking official sources, it consists of an "ideal program" for a 10-year program of military upgrading, concentrating as much on force reorganization and manpower training as on hardware.

'Ideal Program'

According to the account leaked to Knight, the 10-year plan offers the following as an "ideal program" for the Saudi army by 1984: four mechanized brigades, including three mechanized infantry battalions and one armored battalion; an airborne brigade with three airborne infantry battalions; two assault helicopter battalions, one attack helicopter battalion and two air cavalry battalions. By 1984, this force, evidently planned for high mobility at relatively short range, would require 440 helicopters of unspecified size and range.

At sea, the plan likewise envisages a force of high mobility and firepower under short range conditions: 26 new ships in all, consisting of torpedo boats, patrol boats; some missile equipped patrol gun boats and minesweepers.

The air force projection calls for "advanced multi-purpose fighters," according to State Department material published by Knight.

Phantoms Not Mentioned

But it makes no mention of F4 Phantom fighter-bombers, according to official sources, despite persistent reports over the past year that the Saudis were in the market for the premier fighter bomber in the U.S. weapons catalogue.

The sum total, despite reports of immense arms sales to the Saudis to assure oil supplies in future Middle East crises, amounts to far less than Israel or Iran have bought from the United States or received on credit. Israel alone has more than 100 F4s and nearly 1,000 tanks; Iran has at least as many F4s and is in the market for the new F14.

In sharp contrast to the massive armadas of tanks assembled by the Egyptians and Syrians before last October's war, the projected Saudi armored and mechanized force, backed by large helicopter and airborne components, seems aimed primarily at insurgents in southern Arabia and the Omani hinterland and perhaps against an invasion from Iraq.

An offensive thrust against Israel would be inconceivable under present conditions.

The Pentagon report is still in the discussion stage, and the Vest-Ellsworth mission is not expected to bring back any firm arms supply deal, officials insist.

'We Almost Lost Nixon,' Ziegler Claims

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) —

Former President Richard M. Nixon almost died after going into shock following surgery for phlebitis, his former White House press secretary revealed Wednesday.

"There is no doubt that we almost lost President Nixon yesterday afternoon," Ronald L. Ziegler told an impromptu news conference at the hospital where Nixon is being treated.

Nixon's doctors have side-stepped questions as to whether Nixon's life was in danger during the crisis on Tuesday.

Nixon was still on the critical list Wednesday.

Dr. John C. Lungren, Nixon's personal physician, said the former president had shown improvement. He said internal bleeding, which triggered the shock, had apparently stopped.

Blood for transfusions was set aside in case bleeding recurred. Lungren said that although Nixon's vital signs were stable, it was too early to make a prognosis on his condition.

Ziegler said, "I know that President Nixon has not lost the will to live . . . he's a man of great strength and great courage, and he will pull out of it."

Ziegler said Nixon's condition after he went into "vascular shock" — collapse of blood circulation — for three hours was so serious that "I think it's fortunate that President Nixon was in the intensive care unit."

"It's also fortunate that the doctors were handy and could go through the necessary procedures to deal with the president's condition and pull him out of what was . . . a very serious condition."

Nixon was originally placed in the intensive care ward, on the top floor of the hospital, for his security and privacy.

Ziegler said neither he nor any other aides have been permitted to visit Nixon, who has been isolated from everyone but his family and doctors.

The crisis occurred soon after Ziegler left the hospital Tuesday, "and the doctors were so busy dealing with the president's condition that I did not receive notification until 5 p.m. when I happened to call the hospital," Ziegler said.

Of Nixon's wife Pat and daughters Tricia and Julie, who flew here Tuesday night, Ziegler said, "I think the best way to describe the family's state of mind is as one of very deep concern."

He said the three women were staying at a private residence near the hospital on the advice of Lungren, "so they would not be separated from the hospital by a one-hour drive from San Clemente."

Earlier Wednesday, President Ford said he was praying for Nixon and asked to be kept abreast of Nixon's condition.

Ford will be in Los Angeles for a campaign appearance Thursday night, but a White House spokesman has said there were no plans for him to visit Nixon.

The 61-year-old former president was experiencing restlessness and receiving medication for pain and occasional nausea. He also was taking nourishment and antibiotics intravenously.

Ziegler said Nixon was receiving blood transfusions Wednesday morning.

Lungren said Nixon received three pints of blood to counteract shock and internal bleeding, and "several more units are being held in reserve for him."

Nixon continued under the care of specially trained intensive care nurses, said Lungren, adding: "All emergency resuscitation equipment for any contingency are at his bedside."

Citizens Learn About City Street Programs

By JIM DeCAMP
Star Staff Writer

Making sure the benefits outweigh the costs, the taking of park land and validity of methods and procedures were the primary concerns of approximately 50 Lincoln residents at an informational meeting Wednesday night on street planning sponsored by the Citizen's Advisory Group of the Lincoln Street Project Action Plan.

A slide presentation was given on the one and six-year street improvement programs.

In response to a question on whether a cost-benefit analysis had been made of any of the projects, City Traffic Engineer Bob Holsinger said analyses had not been made but would be when the projects reach that stage.

Holsinger said analyses would take into consideration the number of accidents prevented, driving time saved and congestion.

He said the traffic level goals of the projects are in agreement with those of other cities of comparable size.

When asked how his office determines the degree of congestion on a street, Holsinger said they follow standards set up in the Highway Capacity Manual.

He said the manual sets up levels A through F with level F indicating that traffic is backed up to the point it cannot be cleared in two cycles of the traffic signal.

Jacquelyn Heran, of 2335 A, pointed out that some of the projects would take land from Antelope Park and asked if compensation would be made.

said that D St. would be closed at Capital Parkway and turned back to the city for possible use as a parking lot for the sunken gardens at 27th and Capital Parkway.

He said other replacements would be worked out with the City Parks Department in terms of land or money.

Obering said there may be some "total taking" of property at 33rd and Holdrege and 48th and South, but added that if property were condemned just compensation would be made.

When asked about access to businesses being cut off during construction, Obering said state law prohibits the city from compensating for loss of business.

He said an effort is always made to maintain maximum access to businesses, and access has always been provided even though it may be round about.

The city's one-year street improvement program includes: Holdrege, 28th to 46th; 48th, M to Newton; 48th, Newton to Bancroft; 20th and Cornhusker; 48th and Pioneer; 48th and Leighton; South and Park Blvd.; and residential and arterial resurfacing.

Nixon Lawyers Drop Attempt To Get Papers Sent To Him

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lawyers for former President Richard M. Nixon dropped legal efforts Wednesday to have his White House papers sent to him in California immediately, saying Nixon's health made it impossible for him to study them anyway.

At the same time, a lawyer for the House Administration Committee told the court that a group of congressmen plan to enter the complicated legal battle over Nixon's presidential papers.

William Supow, committee counsel, said the congressmen would ask the court to freeze the status of the Nixon papers until action can be completed on a bill. He said formal motions would be filed later in the week.

The Senate already has passed a bill which would retain custody of the papers with the government but allow Nixon access to them. The House is to take up the bill after it returns from its election recess Nov. 18.

Herbert J. Miller Jr., Nixon's lawyer, while maintaining his bid to win ultimate control of the documents for his client, told the court he was dropping his request to have originals of selected Nixon papers sent to the former president now.

Miller had asked the court to order originals of Nixon's White House papers sent to California so the former president could study them in preparation for his possible testimony at the Watergate cover-up trial now in progress.

"At the time of the motion I thought there was a need for immediate preparation for my client to be a witness," Miller said in U.S. District Court. "But because of the unfortunate circumstances since the filing of the motion my immediate need for the documents is not present."

"The matter will have to sit until his health is improved, God willing," Miller said.

In a motion filed last Friday, Miller had asked Judge Charles R. Richey to order original tapes and documents sent to California for Nixon's study. He had argued that keeping the originals in Washington and making copies for Nixon would take too much time.

However, Miller told Richey on Wednesday that "the immediacy of the crisis has changed because of the crisis in the health of my client."

Richey did not rule on any of the motions argued before him Wednesday, but indicated that he would not allow the tapes and documents to be removed from Washington in any event.

Richey set a hearing for Nov. 15 on a motion by Nixon asking that the government be ordered to go through with an agreement between Nixon and President Ford which would give the materials to Nixon and other motions asking that the Nixon-Ford agreement be blocked.

Richey already has issued a temporary restraining order holding the papers in government custody here until the cases are resolved.

In other action before the court, lawyers for former White House aides H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman asked court permission to make copies of White House papers they currently are perusing for evidence to be used in their trial in the cover-up case.

Grand Jury Indicts Three In $4.3 Million Burglary

Chicago (UPI) — A federal grand jury Wednesday indicated three men in the history-making $4.3 million burglary of an armored express company vault, the FBI charged three other suspects in the lucrative heist and said at least $1.5 million of the loot had been traced to the British West Indies.

And FBI complaint filed in U.S. District Court said one of the indicted men, self-styled master criminal Peter J. Gushi, has admitted he took part in the massive theft and "received a sum of money."

An FBI investigator, reporting on a joint investigation by the FBI and Scotland Yard, also said that customs authorities on Grand Cayman Island in the West Indies opened two suitcases "found to be crammed full with U.S. paper currency" and returned them to Luigi Difonzo, 28, one of the suspects charged Wednesday.

The FBI said none of the loot carted from the money stronghold on Chicago's Near North Side on Oct. 20 had been recovered and U.S. Atty. James R. Thompson said the loot probably had been divided by six or seven men believed to have been involved in the burglary.

The federal grand jury indicated Gushi, 47; Ralph Marrera, 31, a suspended security guard accused of being the "inside man" in the breaching of the vault; and James "Jimmy the Greek" Maniatis, accused of supplying the van in which investigators said the money was carried away.

The three, all in custody on cash bonds ranging up to $1 million, were charged with bank burglary, bank larceny and use of explosives in commission of a felony.

A few hours later, the FBI filed a complaint charging Difonzo, 28, Charles Marzano, and Marzano's cousin, William Marzano, with bank burglary, bank larceny, use of explosives and interstate transport of stolen money.

An FBI affidavit said the three men, accompanied by Gushi, drove the money in Difonzo's automobile to Columbus, Ohio, and chartered a flight to Miami, Fla. From Miami, an FBI complaint charged, Difonzo flew on to Grand Cayman, about 200 miles south of Cuba, with about $1.5 million.

The FBI affidavit said the men carried "about eight fairly large bags of family luggage" — which authorities believe held some 300 pounds of hard-to-trace $10, $20 and $50 bills — when they passed through a Columbus airport.

The FBI said the four men registered at an airport motel in Miami, Gushi later returned to Chicago, and Difonzo chartered a plane and flew on, apparently alone, to the Caribbean hideaway.

The FBI said that when Difonzo arrived at Grand Cayman he carried a briefcase and two large suitcases "so heavy each required two men to place them in the plane."

'Street Monster' Gobbles Truck

Perhaps tuning up during pre-Halloween festivities, was a street monster that voraciously gobbled up this truck loaded with gravel in Lansing, Mich. Actually, the story is much more prosaic, as Charles Briggs, driver of the truck, soon discovered. Briggs was driving in front of City Hall to a repair site when he tried to take the easy way by driving over a sidewalk to get past several city buses. Much to his surprise, he fell, truck and all, into the City Hall basement which reaches out under the street.

Magruder: Nixon Liked His Cover-up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jeb Stuart Magruder testified Wednesday that early in the Watergate cover-up he was assured that then-President Richard M. Nixon was pleased at the way Magruder was keeping the true story of the scandal from coming out.

In the second day on the stand as a prosecution witness at the Watergate cover-up trial, Magruder also said he was promised financial help if anything went wrong with plans for him to lie to federal grand juries in the summer and fall of 1972.

The boyish-faced former deputy director of Nixon's 1972 re-election committee also acknowledged telling FBI agents that during the cover-up, he obtained as much money as he could above his normal salary from the committee.

Under cross-examination, Magruder said he told FBI agents on April 19, 1973, that after the original Watergate break-in he accumulated $10,000 or $11,000 "for self-preservation." Magruder said he later learned the figure was $6,000, which he held until the committee agreed to pay some of his legal fees.

It was left unclear precisely how Magruder went about obtaining the extra money.

be Robert Reisner, Magruder's assistant at the re-election committee.

Neal also said that a portion of defendant H.R. Haldeman's testimony before the Senate Watergate Committee might be played on a video tape machine and flashed on a screen for the jury.

Neal said because of "complications," namely errors in the printed public transcript of Haldeman's testimony, it might be inadmissible as evidence that the former White House chief of staff committed perjury before the committee.

During earlier questioning by Assistant Prosecutor Jill Wine Volner, Magruder testified that he once volunteered to take the blame for the break-in but was turned down by senior officials at the committee and the White House.

Dutch Siege Ended Without Casualties

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (AP) — Dutch marines and police carried out a surprise operation early Thursday that ended the siege of the Scheveningen prison chapel without casualties, the Justice Ministry announced.

A ministry communique said the 15 hostages, including two women, were released unharmed and the four convicts were arrested.

The communique said the action was carried out by a close combat unit of marines, a squad of municipal police and prison security officers.

It said the decision to move was taken by crisis headquarters inside the prison walls with the approval of the Dutch government.

The siege began Saturday night when the four convicts, including Palestinian airplane hijacker Adnan Ahmad Nuri, invaded the prison chapel during Mass and took 22 persons hostage.

The hostages included two unarmed prison guards, a priest and members of a volunteer choir.

Six of the hostages — a woman, four children and an elderly man — were released unharmed Sunday and Monday. A seventh — 73-year-old C. van Limbergen — was freed Wednesday.

Plane Crashes Through Ice; 32 Drillers Die

EDMONTON, Alta. (AP) — A Canadian oil company plane crashed through the arctic ice early Wednesday just two miles short of its target runway, killing 32 persons, a company spokesman said.

The plane, a four-engine Lockheed Electra owned by PanArctic Oils Ltd., of Calgary, was flying drilling personnel employed by four to eight different contracting firms, the spokesman said.

He said the plane was on a routine flight from Edmonton north to Rea Point on Byam Martin Island and had come within two miles of completing the 1,500-mile trip when it crashed with 34 persons aboard.

An investigation was ordered into the cause of the crash.

Three persons managed to escape from the plane before it sank through the hole in the ice. They were picked up by rescuers, but one survivor later died while being flown in critical condition to a hospital in Edmonton, the PanArctic spokesman said.

Kissinger Says Mideast Door Still Open

•The New York Times
Dacca, Bangladesh — Secretary of State Henry Kissinger said Wednesday he did not believe the decisions of the Arab summit meeting at Rabat, Morocco, had foreclosed further Arab-Israeli negotiations, but added that he would hold urgent consultations with both sides to see how best to proceed.
Clearly concerned by pessimistic reports from Rabat about the possibility of the negotiations collapsing in the aftermath of the vote to give increased status to the Palestinian Liberation Organization, Kissinger was in contact in the last 12 hours with several Arab leaders.

Plans went ahead for what was described as "a salvage mission" to the Middle East next week at the end of his present trip which began in Moscow a week ago.
Situation Complicated
Newsmen aboard his Air Force jet en route to the Bangladesh capital from New Delhi, India, were told that the situation was now much more complicated than it had seemed only a few weeks ago, but that Kissinger had received indications that some Arab leaders believed further negotiations were still possible.
"I do not believe that the door to all negotiations in the Middle East is closed," Kissinger said,

"but what negotiations and in what framework, that will have to be seen."
The secretary, who has spent much of the last year in mediating between Arabs and Israelis and working toward a step-by-step settlement in the area, was now faced with his most severe crisis in the negotiations.
Uncertainty Added
The problem was compounded by his lack of certainty about the situation, in particular whether President Anwar el-Sadat of Egypt was still willing to proceed in further talks with the Israelis.
The fact that Sadat contacted Kissinger Wednesday encouraged officials in the secretary's party to hope that the Arab leaders behind the scenes may have worked out a scenario that includes new discussions through Kissinger.

The concern about the Middle East preoccupied Kissinger but he went ahead with his tight schedule. After a news conference in New Delhi in which he stressed against the gains made in improving ties with Indian officials, he flew to Dacca and met with Prime Minister Sheikh Mujibur Rahman and other Bangladesh officials. It was a major diplomatic event in this former state, formerly East Pakistan.

A communique issued prior to Kissinger's departure Thursday morning for Islamabad, capital of Pakistan, said the talks were "held in a cordial atmosphere reflecting the warmth in relations" between Bangladesh and the United States.
Because of floods and other economic problems, Bangladesh has sought extensive aid in food and fertilizer from the United States beyond the $60 million extended in the last three years.
Kissinger told Rahman the United States would do all it could to help. Unlike India, Bangladesh has had no qualms about asking for aid.

London Banks Rejecting Oil Dollar Deposits

•The New York Times
London — With the commercial banking system's capacity to cope with the massive flow of money from the oil-producing nations under intense strain, possibly approaching the saturation point, major international banks operating in the London financial center are turning down "petrodollar" deposits.
The banks involved, some of the world's largest, are doing this either by quoting uncompetitive interest rates or by declining to quote rates at all. In general, they continue to deal with the oil-producing countries. But the instances in which they are unable to accept deposits are becoming more and more frequent as the multibillion-dollar influx gathers momentum.

Their increasing refusal to continue absorbing petrodollars reflects their inability to lend out the same money on terms that they consider favorable or prudent. In other words, the flow of oil money has become so great that the banks can no longer handle it safely or efficiently in all cases.
The emerging situation appears to conflict with the assurances offered on several occasions in recent months by U.S. Treasury Secretary William Simon who has maintained that the commercial banking system was fully capable of handling the flow.

Bankers trying to cope with the build-up of oil funds here contend that the producing countries must be more willing to channel their money into investments other than deposits in major banks and must learn to rely less on their traditional banking outlets.
Many bankers have been expressing doubts for months that the system's capacity would be adequate, in light of the quadrupling of oil prices in the last year. The revenues of the 13 members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries will approach $100 billion this year alone.

Because most of the producing countries are relatively undeveloped, their economies do not have the capacity to absorb the funds themselves. So most of the money must be invested elsewhere. The funds have been moving mostly into major commercial banks as short-term deposits.

But the banks must lend the funds out to earn the money they need to pay interest to the depositors and presumably to earn the profits necessary to stay in business. A major part of the current problem is finding creditworthy borrowers in need of such huge amounts of short-term funds.
Another problem is the impact that the deposits have on each bank's capital ratio. Large increases in deposits theoretically should be matched by expanded capital, but the depressed state of the capital markets has made it almost impossible for banks to expand their capital bases.

They're Thinking Metric

They're studying metric volume in Edwardsville, Ill., even though it may be a little cool. Marietta Stein, at tubside, is checking the number of liters displaced by Becky Meinen, in the tub half filled with water. Both are students in a Southern Illinois University elementary science education class taught by Robert Williams. He uses the bathtub demonstration to show his classes the way to use the metric system in measuring volume. In this case, the displacement is 50 liters.

Astronaut Foresees Civilization Of Space

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP) — An astronaut who walked on the moon said Wednesday that the initial exploration phase of space is over and the pioneering phase is beginning.
On the horizon is the civilization of space, said Dr. Harrison H. Schmitt, and he foresees the day when students of all ages and nations will attend orbiting classrooms, studying everything from nuclear physics to poetry.
Schmitt, a geologist who flew on Apollo 17 two years ago, addressed a conference on scientific results of the Skylab space station program.
He said the Apollo and Skylab projects had proved conclusively that man can live in space and play a useful role there, opening the way for routine flights to earth's new frontier in the space shuttle starting in 1979.
"Compressed into the last decade of space activity, history has seen the equivalent of two centuries of exploration of the great American West," Schmitt said. "The first movements into space, which culminated in Apollo, catalyzed our imagination. Skylab gave direction to our imagination. The space shuttle now gives license to our imagination."
The shuttle will be a reusable rocket ship, capable of scores of round trips into space. It is expected to ferry hundreds of researchers from many lands into orbit in the 1980s.
Because of Skylab, Schmitt said, "space observatories become possible from which research and services in meteorology, oceanography, geology and environment can be conducted and from which broad-scale exploration for new earth resources can be carried out."

"The greatest discoveries of the future probably lie in investigations of stellar and interstellar phenomena," Schmitt said. "The nature of gravity, the origin of planets, the limits of our ability to manipulate matter, energy and time and our future as explorers of the universe are all issues at stake."
The astronaut said large international space stations probably will evolve from the shuttle, "continuing the great traditions of space that bring men and nations together."
And, he said, "One can consider a space education facility for students of all disciplines, from the nuclear physics major to the medical student to the poet or novelist."
"The stimulation triggered in young minds by a week or summer in space defies the imagination," Schmitt remarked. "The fact that we can now consider education in space as a rational possibility is a measure of what has transpired in the decade of Apollo and Skylab."
At the outset of the conference, the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics presented its annual Haley Astronautics Award to the first Skylab crew, Charles Conrad Jr., Paul W. Weitz and Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin. They were cited for their bravery in saving the crippled space station so that they and two later crews could inhabit it and conduct experiments for periods up to 84 days.

Right-Wing Politicians Form New Party In W. Germany

•The New York Times
Berlin — A number of right-wing political figures announced here Wednesday that they had formed a new political party aimed at conservative and nationalist elements.
The establishment of the "Union of Free Germany" follows state elections in Hesse and Bavaria last Sunday where voters turned in large numbers toward the conservative opposition, the Christian Democrats and the Christian Socialists, causing painful losses to Chancellor Helmut Schmidt's Social-Liberal coalition.

The new party may become the nucleus for attempts by Franz Josef Strauss, the Bavarian opposition leader, to strengthen his position by setting up a new right-of-center party throughout the country.
Only in Bavaria Strauss' Christian Social Union, which scored a record vote of 62% in the state elections Sunday, currently operates only in Bavaria, as the affiliate of the more moderate Christian Democratic Union.
The new group first emerged as a loose organization of disgruntled former Social Democrats and Christian Democrats last May. "We decided to form a political party the night after the elections in Hesse and Bavaria," the spokesman for the "Free Germany" group, Fritz Schenk, told newsmen.

He said the party planned to take part in city elections in West Berlin next March 2.
The Western allies, who continue to hold sovereignty in the outpost city, have barred another right-wing group, the National Democratic Party, from taking part in the Berlin elections, because of its new-Nazi leanings. A Western spokesman said no decision had yet been taken as far as the "Union of Free Germany" was concerned.

All Ties Denied
The new group denied all ties to the National Democrats.
Schenk, a West German television newsmen, said the party had about 250 to 300 members, but he added that some 20,000 persons had written to declare their interest in signing up.

He said the group was financing its operation through donations, but declined to name the sponsors. There have been reports linking Axel Caesar Springer, the conservative owner of West Germany's largest newspaper empire, with the right-wing organization.
The party chose as its first chairman Ernst Scharnowsky, 78, a retired Berlin union leader.

Greyhound Fined $5,000

(c) Washington Star-News
Washington — U.S. District Judge Oliver Gasch Wednesday fined Greyhound Corp. $5,000 — the maximum — for making illegal political contributions to former President Richard M. Nixon and Sen. George S. McGovern in the 1972 presidential campaign.
Although the firm contributed to both candidates, Thomas Finney, Greyhound's attorney, has said most of the $16,040 donated by the firm went to the Nixon re-election campaign.
Gasch imposed the fine without comment at a brief hearing.

Saigon Police, Corruption Protesters Clash

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — Hundreds of demonstrators protesting alleged government corruption clashed with police Thursday.
Opposition deputies, Western and Vietnamese newsmen, and the leader of the anticorruption movement, activist Catholic priest Father Tran Huu Thanh, were among those beaten and injured by steel-helmeted riot troops.
The trouble erupted after a raid by secret police on a Vietnamese press club where a demonstration against censorship was being planned.
Police arrested up to 50 persons at the press club, including newsmen and opposition deputies; but later released them, deputies said.
The arrests followed a major official shakeup Wednesday by President Nguyen Van Thieu who fired three military corps commanders and 11 generals in response to complaints of corruption from Washington and opposition demonstrators.
Demonstrators in an antigovernment torchlight parade Wednesday night cheered when told of the firings, but their leader, the Rev. Tran Huu Thanh, a Catholic priest who heads an anticorruption movement, declared, "This is only a beginning."

After the parade priest's followers staged an all-night prayer vigil. They were to have joined the anticensorship demonstration in the morning.

The newsmen had announced in advance they would demonstrate Thursday and had gathered in front of their club in defiance of orders sealing off the downtown area. They claimed they had curfew passes and the police needed a court order to remove them.

Exon-Whelan On Top

Perhaps no Nebraska politician in modern times has cut as wide a swath across this state in terms of public acceptance as has Gov. Jim Exon.

The self-assured, energetic Democrat combines political savvy with an intuitive feeling of what Nebraskans want out of state government. His approach to politics and government — at the same time cautious and vigorous — has deflated the gubernatorial hopes of the Republican opposition, Sen. Richard Marvel, and Sen. Ernest Chambers, leader of an Independent crusade.

Chambers has provided the most spice to the campaign, combining deadly seriousness with sharp humor to assail "Repelicans and Demagogues" alike. His views of what society ought to be, and how politicians ought to act, voiced from a statewide forum, have won him the sympathetic ear of many. But as a practical, political matter, as an urban-oriented black running without benefit of party label, his campaign has been doomed from the outset. People are listening to Ernie nonetheless, and hopefully something can be gained from it.

Marvel in many respects is one of the most knowledgeable and competent candidates the Republicans have put at the head of their ticket in years. But one can fairly conclude from his zestless campaigning that his capabilities and interest in legislative affairs to not extend to the executive arena. And fate has propelled him into a buzz saw this election year.

It is The Star's opinion that the GOP Marvel-Batchelder team for governor and lieutenant governor can't, or shouldn't, "out-issue" the Exon-Whelan Democratic ticket.

The incumbent governor has used his veto power too advantageously and has been too careful with the public's money to give any ground at all to Marvel in the areas of budgeting and taxation. And economy in government is the overriding issue in this election.

We doubt very seriously that Marvel could be significantly more conservative in fiscal matters than Exon and still responsibly attend to the needs of the state.

There are a few cracks in Exon's administrative record — we think, for example, that he should keep a sharper eye on leases or contracts the state awards — but on balance he has been a thoroughly capable administrator and one who has a handle on all facets of state government.

Jim Exon in our opinion has been a better governor during the last half of his term than during the first half. His prudent economic sense and his finger on the public pulse probably warned him against advancing some of the programs we favored. But of late he has exhibited a greater appreciation of the state's resources — notably, the University of Nebraska — and long-term needs.

That trend in Exon's administration, plus his genuine concern for tax equity and responsible spending, and the potential for leadership resting with running mate Jerry Whelan, bode well for Nebraska.

The Star recommends a vote for the Exon-Whelan ticket on Nov. 5.

Mock Election Suspect

The Lancaster County Employees Association went ahead with a mock election after working hours Wednesday, marking their preferences in the various county races which will be decided by the voters next Tuesday. What effect, if any, the results will have on the electorate is hard to tell.

The impact aside, we think that while a government employee has a right to express his privately-held opinion, an employee organization also has a duty to help insure a fair election.

What motivated the organization to hold a mock election? Was it petty personality differences with some county officials who face re-election? Or was it inspired purely out of a sense of community service, to let the employees give the public an indication of the competency of their bosses?

It smacks more of the former, because of the attacks made on County Board members by association spokesmen. If the latter, why was it dreamed up just a few days before this particular election?

It was a poor precedent to set because if not this time, in some future mock election the individual employee's right to self-expression could be used collectively for the wrong reasons.

JAMES RESTON

WASHINGTON — The hobgoblin of this year's elections is that the Democrats want a massive victory in the House and Senate races so that they can dominate President Ford and override his vetoes, but this is Halloween talk rather than practical politics.

Even if Democrats added another 35 seats to their present House majority of 248-187, they would still fall short of the 291 votes needed to create the veto-proof Congress Ford is campaigning against. And this assumes that every Democrat in the House would vote the party line, which didn't happen even in the days of Franklin Roosevelt's lopsided majorities.

It is true that the Democrats are a greedy bunch and would take a landslide victory if they could get it, but even Speaker Carl Albert of Oklahoma doesn't want to unbalance the system and knows from experience that the larger the Democratic majority, the harder it is for him to control their votes.

The Constitution insisted on a two-thirds vote of both the House and the Senate to override a presidential veto precisely because the Founding Fathers intended to make such votes extremely difficult, and in general the Congress has been faithful to this principle, regardless of the party balance.

Even in 1973, when President Nixon's popularity was falling fast, the Congress was able to override only one of his nine '73 vetoes (limiting his war-making powers), and of the 37 vetoes he cast from early 1969 until the end of 1973, only five were overridden.

In practical political terms, the Democrats are less interested in boosting their present majorities in the House and Senate than they are in getting control of the machinery and patronage of the governorships in the states with the most electoral votes. They are not as eager for House and Senate seats in '74 as for control of the state houses that will help them in the presidential play-offs of 1976.

Their main objective is not to

REAGAN MIGHT CONSIDER LEADING A THIRD PARTY. — NEWS ITEM

The economy is still likely to be the major issue in the next presidential election. It is the issue that has kept the Democrats in the presidency for 28 out of the last 44 years, but it is not likely to help them if they cripple Ford by overriding one veto after another.

Besides, if the Democrats win by an extravagant margin, their leaders in the House would have to consider another disadvantage: the possibility that a lot of new young Democratic upstarts might challenge the present leadership and join with those who would prefer a different speaker.

Accordingly, talk of a one-party system is both bad politics and bad history. The trend usually goes against the president's party in mid-year elections, but in the last six mid-year elections, the average House gain of the "out" party has been only 26 seats, and even much larger gains have not always assured victory for the outs at the next presidential election.

In 1922, for example, when President Harding was still alive, the Democrats added six seats in the Senate and 75 in the House, but after his death, his successor, Calvin Coolidge won handily for the G.O.P. in 1924. Similarly, the Republicans gained 13 seats in the Senate and 56 in the House in the mid-term elections of 1946, capturing control of both houses of Congress, but Harry Truman squeaked back into the White House two years later.

There may be more future, therefore, in watching the governors, who are regaining some of their old authority and will undoubtedly play an important if not a decisive role in 1976. The split is now 32 Democrats and 18

Republicans, with the prospect that the Democrats are going to add California, New York, Massachusetts, and Connecticut to their total.

They also have a good chance of holding the governorships of Pennsylvania, Ohio, and Maryland, and could even pick up Michigan. With this dominant control of the state capitals in a time of economic difficulty, the Democrats should not need to worry too much about their base on Capitol Hill.

Meanwhile, what President Ford has to worry about is not losing his power of veto, but his command over his own party. For if he loses heavily next Tuesday, despite all his campaigning, he may be confronted by the defection of conservative Republicans and the threat of a third-party coalition led by Gov. Ronald Reagan of California and Gov. George Wallace of Alabama.

Separately, these two governors probably have little chance of winning their parties' presidential nomination in 1976, but together in a three-party race, they might finally produce a wholly new alignment of American political power and challenge both of the major parties.

In short, the threat is not the replacement of the two-party system by a dominant Democratic party, but its replacement by a three-party system led by Reagan and Wallace on the right. Third parties have never been very successful in America, but these are strange times, and at the present rate of inflation and recession, Reagan and Wallace could be the bogy-men of 1976.

Old Men And Politics

Lincoln, Neb.
I question The Star's editorial of Monday, Oct. 28, regarding the state attorney generalship.

The Star observes the "estimable record during his 14 years as county attorney" and the possibility of a "higher office" for Paul Douglas, but fails to note what often happens to a candidate when he is beaten in his first state election.

The second question arises from the following quotations from the editorial:

"The 1974 Legislature gave the attorney general new powers to investigate and prosecute in anti-trust and consumer fraud cases."

"Morrison, if he won, would have no remaining political hills to climb."

Is The Star implying that we can trust only men who are at the end of their political lives? If this is so, what happens when we run out of old men?

Only A Nixon Retread?

Blair, Neb.
If there is an "International Miracle Man of 1974," our very own President Gerald Ford would simply have to be a leading contender.

In a matter of months, he has been literally lifted from a mere congressman to vice president to president of this nation, without anyone much "laying a hand or a vote on him." Only to revert back, figuratively, if you will, in his pre-election partisan political stumping to the same old ward-heeling partisan congressman.

At a time, faced by economic crisis over the nation, when he should concentrate his energies on wrestling with national emergency and setting an example for national unity, he stumps the nation, lambasting "those terrible Democrats in Congress" as he further tarnishes his crown in true former Nixon style. Just another Nixon retread, not yet in power long enough to be that corrupt.

Mr. Ford would ask the people to tighten their belts, while he burns up time and energy in espousing division. His first almost ridiculous efforts at solving monster inflation (supermonster greed in high places) shows almost complete lack of good judgment and honesty.

Bob Colin

Holland, Neb.
I would like to make a comment about our county commissioners and especially Bob Colin.

The last couple of years since the lakes have been built around the town of Holland, we have had so much traffic that it has raised an enormous amount of dust in our town. We are not incorporated; therefore, we do not receive any state funds back from the state for gas tax, etc. This past May many people from this area signed a petition and sent a letter along with it to the county commissioners requesting that they black-top the one main street north and south through the town where much traffic flows due to the lakes, creating the enormous amount of dust.

This was discussed by the commissioners and Bob Colin, who is representing our area, made the motion that this be put in the 1975 budget for Lancaster County. The motion was carried by the board and it is, as I understand it, now in the 1975 budget.

It seems very good to me to have someone like Mr. Colin whom we can appear before even though we are from a small community, and have him listen to our needs and our desires. I feel that he has been representing us well in many ways but I am citing this case as one of the examples.

NEW YORK — Halloween, like the old gray mare, ain't what she used to be. Something has happened that has reduced its spooky mysticism and sometimes wanton mischief to a charade engaged in by moppets who appear at the door, masked and robed, piping: "Trick or treat!" They always settle for the treat. It is an age of compromise, and they are with it.

One of the causes of the vitiation of Halloween's old-time vigor may be the spread of indoor plumbing. There aren't many outhouses for bully-boys to push over any more. As for bobbing for apples, well, a tubful of apples would bust a party-giver at today's supermarket prices.

In the Dark Ages the occasion called All Hallows, on the eve of All Saints Day, must have made the educated minority in Celtic countries question whether there would ever be a Renaissance. It was also the eve of the dank, dismal winter. Fires must be lighted. The souls of the departed, faithful and otherwise, were seen everywhere. Ghosts, witches and demons roamed the fields, screeched in the hedges or moaned from tops of trees. It was the only day of the year when people prayed to the Devil to save them from their dire forebodings. But it was also the time for a lass to fasten her eye on a prospective husband. The best way to find one, it was believed in Scotland, was for a girl to sow hemp seed on plowed land at midnight, while shouting "Hemp seed I sow, who will my husband be, let him come and mow." If she'd then look over her left shoulder she'd see her spouse-to-be, perhaps scratching his matted hair and muttering, "What am I getting into?"

Irish immigrants brought the remnants of the old Halloween to America in the middle of the 19th Century, including the "trick or treat" bit. That was an old Gaelic custom in which farmers solicited food for poor villagers at Halloween. Those who gave willingly were treated to a promise of prosperity. The tight-fisted ones were forced to perform some embarrassing trick, the least obnoxious of which was riding backwards on a horse, in front of the jeering villagers.

Ancients in the Scottish Highlands were reasonably certain they saw the Devil himself marching across the moors in kilts playing "The Death March" on his bagpipe or clicking castanets made of human bones. The old Irish nailed a horseshoe to their barns, upright and with three nails, to protect the animals against witches, goblins and evil spirits. Each nail was struck three times, to symbolize the Holy Trinity. The Welsh scratched their initials or marks on white stones, tossed them in the fireplace, and anyone whose stone was missing the next morning would never live to see the next Halloween.

Something has happened to the Halloween cards, too. Kids used to send unsigned penny-dreadfuls to one another, all garish and cruelly insulting. Now the cards cost 25 or 50 times as much, are beautifully done, and carry such nifty messages as,

"Most of these ugly old witches have only one thing on their minds ... ugly old men."

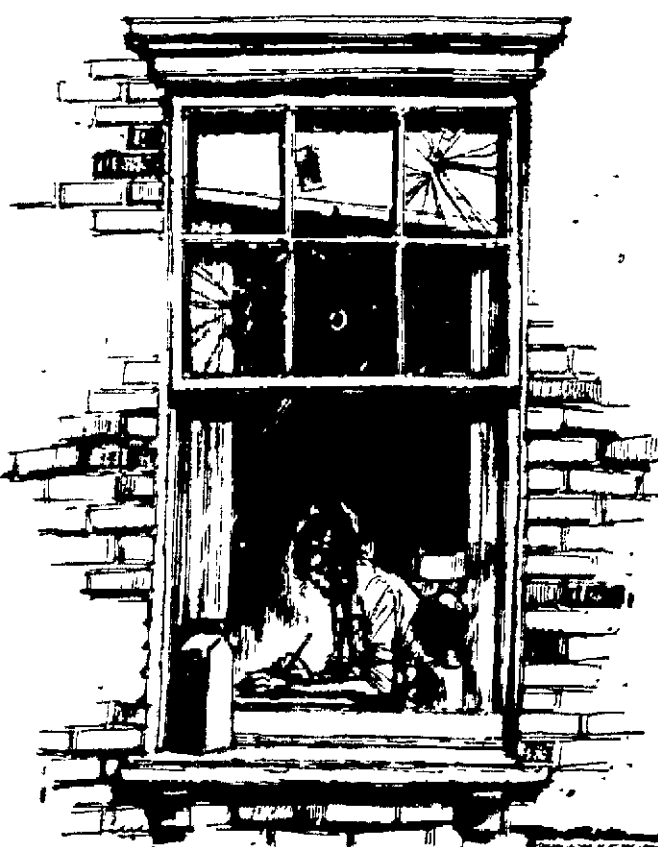

There is something melancholy about today's "trick or treat" nippers, particularly in the big towns and the high-rises of suburbia. I've always thought that a good cover for the New Yorker magazine would be a scene showing three little hooded children knocking on the magnificent entrance of the Waldorf-Astoria while the chauffeur of their parked Rolls-Royce stands nearby.

Warner Accuses Whitney Of 'Political Dirty Trick'

State Sen. Jerome Warner Wednesday accused Sen. Ramey Whitney of playing "an old political dirty trick" by distributing "false and misleading material" on the state aid to schools law just before the Nov. 5 general election.

The ballot includes Referendum Measure No. 300, which allows voters to repeal or retain the bill, LB772, which would triple state aid to operate the public schools over two years and decrease reliance on the property tax.

Warner, of Waverly, said the purpose of the material Whitney has distributed to many Nebraska newspapers "is to mislead and misinform the citizens of Nebraska about the impact of LB772 and its resulting effect on total taxes paid."

Warner said a news release Whitney distributed "leaves out much of the state aid which will be distributed to the schools."

'Totally Ignored'

Warner said provisions of LB772 which the Chappell senator "totally ignored" include:

— $5 million of state aid earmarked for smaller districts with kindergarten through 12th-grade systems.

— Reimbursement to all schools for one-half of their legally required transportation costs.

— A reduction in non-resident tuition costs, "an item which will mean substantial savings" for some schools.

Warner said Whitney's news release "assumes that all people pay the state average of taxes per pupil," and that assumption is totally false.

State Department of Revenue data proves, Warner said, that "for each $1 paid in income tax per capita in the lowest county, $4 is paid in income tax per capita in the highest county, at the same exact tax rate."

The sales tax, Warner said, "cannot be accurately determined on a county-by-county basis, because the residence of the taxpayer and the collection point of the sales tax often are different."

Study Implied

Further, "Whitney embraces the findings of a graduate student's thesis on educational opportunity and implies the thesis is a study on school financing," Warner said.

"It is not a study on school financing"; rather, he said it addresses school reorganization in developing the best education opportunity.

LB772 does not deal with school reorganization," Warner explained.

Whitney "intentionally" excluded from his news release "much of the aid to be provided," Warner said. What was distributed "contains false percentages of state aid (that) various individual school districts will receive of their operating costs."

Warner said Whitney's percentage figures "also ignore the fact" that schools have the option to spend more dollars per pupil than the insured funding level guaranteed by the bill.

"The exercise of that option is made by local decision, local control and local financing," Warner said "Prohibiting that would be taking away local control."

Warner suggested that school districts rely for accurate information on the State Department of Education, which has supplied each district with anticipated state aid figures for the 1976-77 school year.

He added that he has sought to enact legislation to allow retired persons to lead more fulfilling lives.

Thone said he sponsored a bill that would lift the ceilings on earnings by Social Security recipients and has supported expansion of programs that make use of the volunteer skills of the elderly.

"Of course, making certain that citizens have money with which to live in retirement is of paramount importance," the congressman said.

He said he voted for the 11% increase in Social Security benefits which went into effect last year and for the provision that will become effective next year to give those recipients an automatic increase equal to the rise in the cost of living.

Thone said he also sponsored legislation aimed at giving the elderly state and local property tax breaks and was instrumental recently in getting federal approval for housing for the aged in Beatrice, Fairbury, Lincoln, Seward and Wakefield.

But he said the senior citizen's "need to feel wanted and appreciated is as important as any material need," he said.

Exon-Whelan Team Wins UNL Contest

Gov. J. J. Exon and his running mate, Gerald Whelan, ran first in a University of Nebraska Daily Nebraskan poll, with independent candidate Ernest Chambers running second.

The Republican team of Richard Marvel and Anne Batchelder finished third among those polled by the student newspaper.

The Exon-Whelan ticket received 30% of the vote, while Chambers had 27% and the Marvel-Batchelder ticket 17. But 27% of those returning ballots said they were undecided.

Hess Dyas, Democratic candidate for Congress in the First District, drew 41% and incumbent Charles Thone 28%.

Omaha Dairies Say Thefts Of Milk Cases Expensive

Omaha (AP) — Two large Omaha dairies say they are having some very expensive problems involving the thefts of plastic and wire milk cases.

Calvin D. Fisher, president of Roberts Dairy Co., said his firm has spent $270,000 over the past three years to replace the stolen milk cases.

L. K. Muller, vice president of Alamito Dairy, said that due to the thefts, his firm is being forced to buy from 500 to 1,000 new cases every two months.

Muller said the cases cost between $3 and $4 each.

The Metropolitan Dairy Institute of New York reported on the thefts being a nationwide basis, and said the thefts are costing the consumers about one penny per gallon.

Muller and Fisher assessed the situation at the local level.

The cases are generally stolen from behind supermarkets, where they are stacked for pick up. The cases have a great variety of uses, including: house plant stands, record holders and bookshelves.

Fisher said the problem is not as serious now as it was when wooden cases were being used. He said the switch to the use of wire and plastic cases was made in an effort to cut down on the thefts.

Muller said one way to reduce the thefts would be to charge the supermarkets a deposit on the cases, but the stores have been unwilling to take on the bookkeeping connected with such a plan.

Red Skelton Booked For Omaha Show

Omaha (AP) — It's official — comedian Red Skelton will be the headliner Jan. 17 when the Orpheum Theater here reopens its doors as a performing arts center.

Booking agent Don Romeo announced Wednesday that Skelton has accepted an invitation to perform for the gala opening night.

Skelton performed in the Orpheum many years ago when it was a vaudeville and movie house.

About $2 million is being spent to refurbish the old theater.

Yutan Man Applies For Marshal's Post

Omaha (AP) — A Yutan man has applied for the position of United States marshal to be vacated this Friday by Lloyd Grimm.

Grimm was wounded during the 1973 American Indian Movement takeover of Wounded Knee, S.D., and is now paralyzed from the waist down. He will retire on total disability.

Sen. Roman Hruska, R-Neb., said Donald C. Romans, a former chairman of the National Federation of Young Republicans, has applied for the post.

Hruska said Romans has his endorsement, as well as the approval of Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., and Rep. John Y. McCollister, R-Neb.

Hruska said U.S. District Judge Warren K. Urbom of Lincoln will make the selection announcement because the appointment is temporary.

Romans, who now operates a small trucking firm here, formerly served as an administrative assistant to McCollister.

Dunbar To Vote On Sewer Issue

Dunbar — In a special election here Monday, Nov. 11, voters will decide on a $147,000 bond proposal to finance a sewerage system. John Steinheider, attorney for the Dunbar board of trustees, said the project will cost approximately $225,000 with $78,000 provided by FHA grants. He explained that sewer use fees and property taxes would pay off the $147,000 over a period of 40 years, if the bonds are approved.

NU Team Enters Eastern Contest

The University of Nebraska-Lincoln will be represented for the first time in the Eastern National Intercollegiate Meats Judging Contest in Timberville, Va., Saturday. Washington Exhibitors Top Earnings

Omaha (AP) — Washington County exhibitors at the 1974 Ak-Sar-Ben 4-H livestock show topped all counties in premium earnings. John D. Diesing, chairman of the livestock show committee, said the Washington County competitors picked up a total of $1,066 in premium money. Lancaster and Cuming counties recorded the second and third highest totals, $1,061 and $1,009 respectively.

Historical Programs On Blacks Set

Hastings (AP) — The first of two programs on blacks as an ethnic culture in Adams County will be held Sunday afternoon in Hastings as part of a program of the Adams County Historical Society. The second program will be Nov. 17. Faye Mullen, director of the Head-Start program, will be lecturer and moderator. The programs will include a historical view of blacks in the community the past 100 years.

Peru Plans Dedication Of Memorial

Peru — Dedication services will be held at Mt. Vernon Cemetery here Monday, Nov. 11, for a memorial honoring residents of the area who died in World War II, Korea and Vietnam. A wall, eight feet long by five feet high, faced with red brick, and located inside the cemetery gate, will hold three plaques listing the war dead.

Omaha To Host National Meet

Omaha (AP) — Omaha has been selected as the site for the 1981 national conference of American Chamber of Commerce Executives, according to Keith Carter, executive vice president of the Greater Omaha Chamber of Commerce. Carter said the three-day conference is expected to draw about 700 chamber executives and their wives from nearly every part of the country.

The Legislature may be asked to change a law requiring the state institutions director to have at least seven years' institutional administrative experience.

The recommendation, an Exon administration official said, may come about because of a problem encountered by a committee assigned the task of finding a replacement for Dr. Jack Anderson.

Anderson, the current director of institutions, has resigned but an effective date was left open pending the naming of his replacement.

The committee's problem, said Norman Otto, administrative assistant to Gov. J. J. Exon, can best be indicated by a paragraph from a letter to Otto.

List Turned Over
In the letter, a list of five candidates was turned over to the governor's office for consideration.

However, the letter said, "there were several other good applicants, including a Nebraskan, but in our interpretation they do not meet the requirement" stated in the law on experience.

That comment was made by John Humpal, chairman of the advisory committee to the Institutions Department, which is aiding in the search for a new director.

Humpal went on to say the committee concluded the requirement is "unduly restrictive."

"For one thing," he said, "it prohibits employees working on other than the Department of Public Institutions (staff) from applying for the position."

Humpal said the committee recommended the Legislature "change this requirement to a more realistic approach — placing emphasis on management skills and administrative ability."

5 To Be Screened
Otto said before any such recommendation would be made the five candidates would be screened, a process he said he has already begun.

"Right now we are at the telephone interview stage," Otto said, "which means if any of the five works out, an announcement could come in possibly the next two weeks."

However, he said, if none of the five works out — all are from outside Nebraska although one is a former Nebraskan — there is the option of seeking a change in the law.

The committee recommended if that was the option selected, then the governor might want to consider appointing Jack Cleavenger as acting director so that Anderson could go ahead and take on another job.

Cleavenger is currently head of the General Services Division of the Institutions Department.

Suit Claims Gambling Laws Being Enforced 'Arbitrarily'

The Golden Cue Family Recreation Center charged Wednesday that it is not being treated the same as other private clubs which permit games of skill to be played on the premises.

In an action filed Wednesday in U.S. District Court, John Long, owner of the Golden Cue, alleges that law enforcement officers have sought "arbitrarily and unreasonably" to enforce gambling laws against his Checkmate Club while at the same time they have allowed other individuals to gamble openly.

In the suit naming Lincoln Police Chief Joseph Carroll and Lancaster County Attorney Paul Douglas as defendants, Long claims that in 1973 as part of the Golden Cue at 1907 O he opened a small private club known as the "Checkmate Club" where games of skill could be played for 75¢ per hour by members paying a one dollar membership fee.

According to the petition, it is a "well-established custom of law enforcement" throughout the county to ignore gambling activities that occur in private residences and exclusive clubs or certain public activities which law enforcement officials "arbitrarily and unreasonably deem 'permissible'."

The petition specifically cites the Elks Club, Eagles Club, Lincoln Country Club, Hillcrest Country Club and American Legionnaire Club as examples of clubs where members are allowed to participate in gambling on the premises.

The plaintiff also contends that gambling is "permitted during the Nebraska State Fair on the midway "under the ever watchful eyes of the Lancaster County sheriff's office and State Patrol."

Also cited was a recent University of Nebraska chess tournament in which the winner received a $150 cash prize.

The plaintiff contends that the defendants have declined to prosecute for these activities and have allowed them to proceed in open violation of the law without threat of arrest or prosecution.

According to the petition, the Lincoln Police Department has harassed, investigated and threatened the plaintiff and written reports concerning the operation, and the county attorney has threatened to file a felony complaint if Long didn't cease the operation of the Checkmate Club.

Because of the alleged harassment and threats, the plaintiff says he ceased operation but he is being denied equal rights, privileges and immunities under the law.

Long asks the court to enjoin the defendants from harassing, arresting or prosecuting the plaintiff in any manner for the operation of the Checkmate Club and seeks $115,000 in damages.

DeCamp Files Lawsuit Against First Federal

By The Associated Press
State Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh filed suit Wednesday in Lancaster County District Court against the First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Lincoln.

The suit charges that First Federal backed out of a contract to provide money for DeCamp's building projects.

DeCamp said D&D Construction Co., which he partly owns, will also file separate suits against First Federal for his projects in York, Neligh and O'Neill. The suit filed in Lincoln is a personal suit by DeCamp.

First Federal earlier filed foreclosure actions against DeCamp's projects. DeCamp said some of the company suits could be filed as counter claims in foreclosure actions already filed by First Federal.

DeCamp's attorney, Arlen Beam, said the total amounts of the suits would be determined by the courts. He said the suit was called a "diminution of credit reputation action."

The petition charges that First Federal promised to provide funding for the projects, refused to provide the financing and then began foreclosure actions.

The project is responsible for erecting sculptures at 12 Interstate rest areas in Nebraska. A statewide unveiling on July 4, 1976, is planned

Sculpture Project Is Incorporated

A Bicentennial sculpture project has been incorporated so as to meet part of the requirements to be formally recognized by the American Revolution Bicentennial Commission.

Incorporation for the Nebraska Interstate 80 Bicentennial Sculpture Project was also necessary for the project to apply for funds, according to project director Art Thompson.

The project is responsible for erecting sculptures at 12 Interstate rest areas in Nebraska. A statewide unveiling on July 4, 1976, is planned

Extension Group Chooses Officers

Kearney — Phil Cole, University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension dairy specialist, was named president of the Nebraska Cooperative Extension Association (NCEA) at the organization's annual meeting, which ended here Wednesday.

Marlyn Low, Madison County Extension agent at Battle Creek, was named vice president, Mrs. Carol VanNordheim, area Extension home economist at Ord was re-elected secretary, and Dr. Allen Wellman, NU Extension economist at Lincoln, was named treasurer.

The association includes state and district specialists, county and area agricultural agents and county and area home economists. Section officers were announced as follows:

Specialists — Robert Perry, Extension economist (farm management), North Platte Station, North Platte, chairman, Barbara Boettcher, district 4-H specialist, Lincoln, vice chairman, Wellman, secretary. Cole and Dan Lutz, assistant Extension editor at Lincoln, continue as specialist directors.

Home Economics — Barbara Smith, Scotts Bluff County Extension home economist, Scottsbluff, chairman, Gladys Stout, home economist (expanded nutrition), Northeast Station, Concord, chairman-elect, Connie Bull, Dawson County Extension home economist, Lexington, secretary-treasurer, Shirley Niemeyer, Sarpy County Extension home economist at Papillion, was elected director. Clara Lawson, area Extension home economist, York, continues as director.

Agricultural Agents — Harlon Luttrell, Lincoln County Extension agent at North Platte, chairman, Raymond Sall, Deuel County Extension agent at Chappell, vice chairman, James Novotny, Dodge County Extension agent at Fremont, secretary. Other directors are Low and Harry Hecht, York County Extension Agent at York.

Holdup Charge Dismissed By U.S. Magistrate

Kansas City (AP) — A complaint charging a Kansas City water department worker with the robbery of an Omaha savings and loan association has been dismissed by U.S. Magistrate Calvin K. Hamilton.

Hamilton said he dismissed the charge against Clarence E. Brown, 24, at a hearing because there was insufficient evidence to show that Brown was involved in the Oct. 17 holdup of the Commercial Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Authorities said about $7,300 was taken in the robbery by three men wearing ski masks and coveralls.

Chamber Of Commerce Supports City Amendments

The Lincoln Chamber of Commerce Wednesday reaffirmed its position in favor of four City Charter amendments to be voted on in Tuesday's election.

The chamber board recently went on record in favor of these amendments before the Charter Revision Committee.

The proposed amendments would: —Repeal a requirement that the mayor receive a higher salary than city department heads, —Remove an 8% interest rate ceiling on city bonds, —Remove an interest rate ceiling on unpaid special assessments of the city, —Remove a 7% interest rate ceiling on revenue bonds. "The chamber feels strongly that it is of critical importance to keep the city of Lincoln competitive and assure its ability to finance public projects," Chamber President Paul J. Amen said.

Repeal of the requirement regarding the mayor's salary would assure the city's ability to hire necessary technically skilled and competent administrators, Amen said.

The chamber also heard a report from Rolland Harr, executive director of the Airport Authority, on progress at the new Lincoln terminal.

Present plans call for initiating operations in the new terminal Dec. 3, Harr said, adding that both Frontier and United airlines had asked to delay moving in until after Thanksgiving.

Opening of the terminal has been pushed back several times due to delays in ordering equipment and bad weather, which bogged down construction.

Both Harr and board member Dick Joyce criticized the two major airlines for "dragging their feet" on the project. "The airlines didn't cooperate too well in planning the facility," Harr said. "I think they are pleased now that the board took the initiative without their OK," he added.

Dedication of the new ter-terminal probably won't be until June or even later, Harr said, because the access road won't be completed until then.

Sexual Sociopath Law Is Upheld

By The Associated Press
The federal district court in Lincoln has upheld the constitutionality of Nebraska's sexual sociopath law.

Harold James Leroy Irwin appealed an Adams County District Court determination that he was a sexual sociopath. The lower court made the ruling after the jury found him guilty of six counts of rape.

He was sentenced to an indeterminate sentence in the Nebraska Penal Complex. He said the law denied him constitutional rights.

The district court opinion, written by visiting Judge Paul Benson, did not discuss the Nebraska sexual sociopath law. Benson said only that the U.S.

Supreme Court had upheld, similar laws in other states.

The law allows the courts to send a sexual sociopath to the penal complex to serve an indeterminate sentence.

'A Small Personal Voice'

A good writer must, of necessity, be a person of insight. A person of sensitivity who can see life in all its complexity, and crystallize it on the written page.

And, perhaps, to be a good author, one must also doubt and continually question his/her ability to perform that function.

British author, Doris Lessing ("Briefing For A Descent Into Hell," "The Summer Before The Dark," "Children Of Violence") fits easily into both categories.

In the recently-published, "A Small Personal Voice" (Knopf) — a collection of Ms. Lessing's essays, reviews and interviews — the reader is introduced to both sides of this most talented woman.

The selections reveal an individual who has thought a great deal about life. A novelist who has thought a great deal about her art.

In both instances, she has confronted at one time, doubts; at another time, hope.

During an interview which took place in 1966, Ms. Lessing said:

"One has this feeling after writing a novel. There it is: 120,000 words; it's got a nice shape and the reviewers will say this and that. And the bloody complexity that went into it. And it's always a lie, and the terrible despair. So you've written a good novel or a moderate novel, but what does it actually say about what you've actually experienced? The truth is — absolutely nothing. Because you can't ... you can't get life into it — that's all there is to it — no matter how hard you try."

Yet that same woman — who cannot understand boredom, who finds life "so enormously exciting" — can also say that, although we are not living in a great literary period, all is not lost:

"The novel is the only popular art-form left where the artist speaks directly, in clear words, to his audience ... in a small personal voice. In an age of committee art, public art, people may begin to feel again a need for the small personal voice; and this will feed confidence into writers and ... the warmth and humanity and love of people which is essential for a great age of literature."

This "warmth" and "love of people" is what Ms. Lessing has found lacking in contemporary literature.

In an article penned in 1957, she refers approvingly to the works of the great 19th century novelists — Tolstoy, Stendhal, Dostoevsky, Balzac, et. al. — saying that what they shared (and what we, apparently lack) was "a climate of ethical judgment."

"If there is one thing which distinguishes our literature," she goes on, "it is a confusion of standards and the uncertainty of values ... It is hard to make moral judgments, to use words like good and bad."

For two decades, Ms. Lessing writes, authors — both Western, with their morbid preoccupation with suffering and despair; and Socialist, with their "simple statements of faith" in the economic view of man — have missed the point.

They have ignored "man, the responsible individual, voluntarily submitting his will to the collective, but never finally; and insisting on making his own personal and private judgments before every act of submission."

No stranger to causes herself, Ms. Lessing demonstrates a farsightedness, a vision frequently missing in those who affix their names to political/social causes.

The 55-year-old Ms. Lessing has become known as something of a latter-day women's libber (primarily, she says, because critics have often misinterpreted her books). But hers is not the voice of the movement-blinded zealot:

"I don't think that Women's Liberation will change much ... not because there is anything wrong with their aims but because it is already clear that the whole world is being shaken into a new pattern by the cataclysms we are living through; probably by the time we are through, if we do get through at all, the aims of Women's Liberation will look very small and quaint."

Throughout the selections contained in this most interesting volume, Ms. Lessing demonstrates that, as a writer, she has been doubly blessed:

She combines the artistry, the sensibility of

Flying Foxes At Antelope Zoo

It looks like a miniature dog decked out in a caftan and pajama pants — all the better to deceive you.

But it's really one of the two giant Indian "Flying Foxes," a species of the tropical Greater Fruit Bats.

They are being exhibited for the first time in Lincoln at the Antelope Zoo, according to Dick Vaughn, supervisor of the municipal zoo, who reported he has bats in his nocturnal exhibit, not in his belfry.

Because the Fruit Bats are voracious fruit eaters, their importation is strictly regulated by the federal government.

The youngsters were acquired by the municipal zoo from a similar facility in Topeka, Kan.

Being nocturnal (they are active during hours of darkness; sleep during the day), the bats participate in twilight goings-on in the "nocturnal display" with two other types of day-sleeping mammals from the tropics — three pottoes (primitive primates from the Congo) and the bushy-tailed Galagos ("bush babies" of Africa).

The "Flying Foxes" which have life expectancies of more than 15 years, will eventually be the size of a raven, with a wingspread of up to five feet.

dear abby

He Wants To Be Woman

DEAR ABBY: I am a 23-year-old white male nurse. I love sports and excelled in track. I was saved by the grace of Jesus Christ two years ago. I read my Bible daily and sing in the gospel choir.

Even though I am a born-again Christian, I am miserable. All my life I have wanted to be a woman. I would love to be on the U.S. Women's Olympic Track team. I can cook, sew and type. I have never cared anything about mechanics, engineering or any of the so-called masculine careers. I hate hunting and fishing. I never could kill a living thing.

Abby, this secret desire to be a woman is about to destroy me. I am not a homosexual, but I'd give anything to have a sex change operation. Where is this done? Is it against the law? I will go anywhere. I'd rather be dead than continue living like this.

Abby, if the Lord really loves me, why did He give me a man's body when I feel and think like a woman? I have been this way all my life. Please help me!

SAVED BUT DIFFERENT

DEAR SAVED: The Lord created all of us, and why he made you "different" I do not know. Nature sometimes makes biological blunders, as is the case when one's body does not conform with his (or her) natural feelings. You are not alone. Don't feel guilty. One cannot help what he feels.

I believe that knowledge, skill and talent are divinely inspired, and that those scientists, physicians and surgeons whose combined efforts have made sex-change operations possible do so with God's guidance. For information about sex-reassignment and related problems, write to The Erickson Foundation, 1627 Moreland Ave., Baton Rouge, La. 79808.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing a paper on modern marriage and would appreciate your help.

From the wife's point of view, what is the most common complaint about her husband?

From the husband's point of view, what is the most common complaint about the wife?

B.H. DEAR B.H.: The wife's Number One complaint: "My husband doesn't appreciate me."

The husband's Number One complaint: "She nags me."

DEAR ABBY: My wife is a fraud. About four years ago I made a deal with her. I told her if she would quit smoking I would buy her a pair of diamond earrings she wanted very much.

She agreed to quit, and I bought her the earrings. I should tell you that we had been married for 30 years and I thought I could trust her. Well, a year ago I caught her smoking. She said she really hadn't started to smoke again, but she'd take a cigaret "occasionally" to keep her from eating between meals because she was trying to keep her weight down. At that time she gave me her word that she wouldn't smoke again.

I am almost certain that she is smoking behind my back, but I haven't caught her at it yet. If I can prove that she's smoking should I sell the earrings to teach her a lesson?

UNHAPPY HUSBAND DEAR UNHAPPY: No. But ask her to hand them over, and put them away as an incentive for her to swear off again.

DEAR ABBY: A while ago you had a "confidential to Virgo" to the effect that to correct a person who has mispronounced a word is cruel when done in the presence of others. I agree.

What about the mispronunciations of names? I have an uncommon name, and when someone mispronounces it—and this happens frequently—I always correct that person politely but immediately, even if it must be done in the presence of others (which, unfortunately, is usually the situation.)

UNCOMMON NAME DEAR UNCOMMON: That's the exception.

Law Is A Flexible Field For Women

Thursday, Oct. 31, 1974 The Lincoln Star 11

By NANCY HICKS
Star Women's Editor

Law is a very good profession for women, according to Municipal Court Judge Janice Gradwohl, who said that within the last three to five years there has been a dramatic increase in the number of women attending law school.

The rate of women entering law schools has risen from 10.3% in 1970 to 19.6% in 1973, according to Judge Gradwohl, speaker for the seventh Women/Speak program sponsored by the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Student Y.

The number of women taking the Law Scholastic Aptitude Test (entrance test for law schools) has risen from 10.4% in 1969-70 school year to 21.2% in 1972-73. And the average mean scores of women during those two years was two to four points higher than the scores of men, she pointed out.

Though the number of young people now entering law school may mean greater job competition in the future, there are many varied opportunities for women law school graduates. And law is a flexible field which can often be combined with motherhood, Judge Gradwohl said.

Judge Gradwohl, who has three teenage children, never completely interrupted her career. But while her children were young she was able to work only part time and did much of her work from her own home.

While admitting that discrimination against women lawyers may exist, Judge Gradwohl, said, "I really don't think I have experienced any discrimination."

"Even 20 years ago women didn't have problems getting jobs," said Judge Gradwohl, who was one of three women graduating from the UNL College of Law in 1954.

While a woman lawyer was a rarity in earlier years, "male lawyers today do not think in terms of women lawyers, just as lawyers," said Judge Gradwohl. "Maybe they're getting used to us," she said.

In fact Judge Gradwohl believes that some questions and policies regarded by some women as discriminatory are "perfectly proper."

A company has a long term interest in a prospective employee, and it is perfectly proper to ask women what their family plans are, she said.

She also believes that some women want special treatment rather than "fair and equal" treatment.

A woman with small children who doesn't want to work over the summer months and who applies for a nine-month-a-year job when the company wants a 12-month-a-year employee, is not asking for equal treatment, but for special treatment, she pointed out.

While it seemed that the Judge hedged on some questions about whether judges' stereotyped attitudes on women's role was ever reflected in their decisions and about lawyer ethics, she did point out historical examples of discrimination against women.

Under early English law, women were not allowed to engage in commerce and business, and in 1873 the United States Supreme Court refused to allow an Illinois woman, Myra Bradwell, to become a member of the Illinois Bar.

In this decision, which has not yet been reversed, the Supreme Court defined women's mission stating, "the natural and proper timidity and delicacy which belongs to the female sex evidently unfits her for many of the occupations of civil life."

In answer to a question about UNL law school entrance practices, Judge Gradwohl said, "I don't know what the policy is at Nebraska. But I think there is some effort to attract minority groups."

Chambers' Appeal Growing, Broadening

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Walking south along Centennial Mall on his way to the Statehouse this sunny October afternoon, Ernest Chambers passed the construction site for the new state office building.

"Hi, Ernie," a hard-hatted white construction worker yelled, waving a greeting.

"How ya doing?" Chambers responded, raising his hand.

For Ernie Chambers, 37, the elected spokesman for Omaha's Near North Side, it was another small sign of his growing visibility among Nebraskans. A black barber without party affiliation, he is making a run at the governorship as a petition candidate.

Shudders Of Apprehension

Chambers came to the Legislature in 1971, his arrival sending shudders of apprehension through most of his 48 new "colleagues." They said the installation of a strict new security system just happened to coincide with his presence.

Senators knew Chambers only as the unyielding spokesman for the Omaha blacks' newly vigorous demands for equal treatment and a recognition of unmet needs. Although he spoke mildly, the words were tough.

Confining most of his legislative activities in that first session to concerns for his constituency's special problems, Chambers developed over the next three years an interest in all issues.

From All Areas

And something strange began to happen. Letters started to trickle into his mailbox from all across the state.

Now Chambers can speak to a farm audience in Broken Bow and to the business types who gather at service club luncheons in Lincoln.

And that is just what he is doing — scheduling his gubernatorial campaign by following the speaking invitations wherever they lead, from Omaha west to McCook and North Platte.

A lucid and compelling speaker, Chambers aimed this day's message at a noon luncheon of the Optimists Club, to 48 white faces at Lincoln's Elk Club, a facility which only recently has opened its doors to black membership.

"I am the personification of your organization," Chambers told the Optimists.

"Everyone in the state who is intelligent is going to vote for me. You see, I am an optimist."

Raptly attentive, his audience laughs.

"There's a real world out there where people are suffering," Chambers tells them.

And don't be misled, he suggests.

"You are about two steps from poverty."

"Don't think that just because the system allows you to take some crumbs from the table, it has any regard for you. You're part of the powerless — like me."

The militants may be the ones people fear, but "you're the ones who are going to bring down the country" if its injustices are not corrected, he said.

"Then, you could be out there in the cold. You could find out that people are not unemployed because they want to be, that they are not poor because they choose to be."

"Then you will find out that poverty is not a crime."

His audience is silent.

"You're in a position to change this nation," Chambers insists. And a good place to begin is to "demand a higher standard from politicians."

Questions Invited

They are invited to ask questions. And, surprisingly, a dozen come bursting out, sending the meeting well beyond its scheduled closing time.

The first inquiry is a stunner, indicating that Chambers may have succeeded when he told them that "I came to feed your minds, not to have you feed my stomach."

Are you a practitioner of existentialism? he is asked.

Rejecting labels, Chambers says: "I call myself a black barber, a father and a husband."

What is Nebraska's most serious problem?

"Governor Exon."

What would you do if you won?

"Concentrate on problems which confront people. Be a very conspicuous governor, be seen throughout the state."

Lease Criticized

Chambers criticizes the Exon administration's lease arrangements for Department of Labor office space in Omaha, urges his listeners to "demand that Exon come clean," and promises to do what he can — either as a senator or governor — to cancel the lease next year.

Chambers says he is for amnesty for Vietnam draft evaders whereas, he guesses, his audience is not. But then they should at least support legislation to provide more assistance to Vietnam veterans, as he does, he suggests.

Looking at his opponents, Governor Exon and Republican nominee Richard Marvel, Chambers offers a comparison.

"They're tall; I'm short. They're old; I'm young. They're white; I'm black. They talk slowly; I talk rapidly. They think slowly; I think rapidly."

"They're politicians. I am a statesman."

His audience laughs appreciatively, and Chambers heads out into the sun.

They Listened

Walking toward the Statehouse, he muses about the response. Yes, they listened, but he probably didn't win any votes.

At his legislative office in the Statehouse, he answers questions about the campaign. It may cost about $1,200, most of it paid by small contributions, many of them anonymous. He's made about 50 speeches. He drives his own car, will probably go "in the hole" for gasoline expenses.

"Each of the four children contributed one dollar from allowance money and the other six is from my lunch money," one Omaha contributor wrote him. "We regret that we cannot do more for you."

Drawings Line Walls

A state employee drops in with a problem. They talk, surrounded by notes and drawings from a class of children at Huntington School which line the walls.

"Thank you for telling us about the Pied Piper," Mike Egger wrote.

"Senator Chambers: He made the mouses go in the water," Tracey wrote.

Winning the governorship will be even more difficult than that.

But, even if he doesn't, there appears to be a victory in sight for the compact, short-sleeved, muscular (he lifts weights to stay in shape) Chambers.

When it's over, win or lose, he's going to have more influence throughout the state, isn't he?

"Right on," Chambers nods.

Mailbox Dispute Is Federal Case

Grover City, Calif. (UPI) — The roadside mailbox has been a symbol of rural America since the postman rode a horse. But if small town dwellers want to change to city ways, do they have to sue the federal government to get mail service?

Yes. The little town of Grover City has filed suit against the Postal Service to force mailmen to deliver mail to home boxes. For years the mailboxes here have been on posts near the streets, so letter carriers could insert mail without leaving their cars or vans.

In July, Grover City built sidewalks.

With the sidewalks came a city law requiring residents to move their mailboxes back onto their property, urban style.

The Postal Service warned that any homeowners who complied would not get home delivery. They could claim their mail at the post office but it wouldn't be put in home boxes. The city council, taking up the challenge, mounted a test case, ordering homes on Atlantic Ave. to move their boxes.

Sixteen residents complied. The Postal Service stopped delivery.

City Attorney Stephen Cool filed suit in San Luis Obispo County Superior Court, and as a case against the federal government, it was transferred Monday to U.S. District Court in Los Angeles.

Include the Newspaper in vacation plans. Your paper by mail will keep you informed while away. Your carrier collects regular home delivery rate on your return.

Students To Attend Safety Conference

Modern Youths' Long Tresses Arouse Ire Of Many Conservative Oldsters

By ROBERT PETERSON
Few aspects of modern youth are so irritating to conservative oldsters as long hair. This column hears regularly from elders vexed by grandsons, nephews and neighbors who insist on wearing their hair hippie-style.

Sometime ago we quoted a letter from a young man who said he saw nothing wrong with long tresses since civilization itself was created by men from Aristotle to Ben Franklin who never went to a barber. "In fact," he wrote, "the Bible itself is full of long-haired men and Jesus Christ himself wore his hair to his shoulders."

"I must put that young man right by emphasizing that the Bible does not smile on long-haired men," writes H. C. Matzinger of Wyandotte, Mich. "As stated in 1 Corinthians 11:14, 'Doth not even nature itself teach you that, if a man hath long hair, it is a shame unto him?'"

The Martin article also contends that Christ was probably beardless. "The earliest pictures of Christ are painted on the walls of the Catacombs in Rome. Most were painted during the 2nd and 3rd Centuries and it might be added, outside the approval of the Catholic Church since that church did not allow such representations at that early date. The most ancient of these is a painting of the Resurrection by Lazarus in which Christ is shown youthful and beardless, with short hair and large eyes. This picture is of great interest since it is the oldest representation of Jesus preserved anywhere and was probably sketched by individuals who were generally familiar with the appearance of Christ that came by word of mouth from the apostles.

"Martin contends that religious research indicates it was not until the 4th Century after Christ that pagan influences caused Christ to be depicted with long hair and a beard. Painters at that time were intrigued by mythological gods such as Orpheus, Hermes, and Apollo, whom they depicted with long hair and beards as symbols of wisdom and power. When they painted Christ they gave him the same long hair and beard which they gave these pagan figures. "They eventually evolved a portrayal of Christ which was finally sanctioned by the Catholic Church and is the very presentation of Christ that is extant in Catholic and Protestant churches today," Martin says.

The foregoing is provocative, but won't have the slightest influence on modern youths. Maybe it's just as well. As wise elders know, youth is a very brief period and men start losing their hair when youth passes. Perhaps we should let youngsters enjoy the long hair in peace.

Family Life Said Foundation Of Society

By LINDA OLIG
Star Staff Writer

"The ultimate survival of society depends on the quality of family life," Jack O'Shea, executive director of the Family Service Association, said Wednesday.

It is the family that serves as "the backdrop of security" which gives children "the confidence to grow to maturity... to function as adults," O'Shea said.

But the family also can be the ultimate source of mental illness, of many societal ills, unless it learns to cope with stress, he warned. It can be "the enforcer of mediocrity."

"Start With Children"

"To have mentally healthy adults we must start with children," O'Shea said, echoing the advice given by a national commission which recommended childrearing be installed as the nation's No. 1 priority.

"Childrearing is one of — if not the — most important functions of the family," he told more than 50 persons who attended the first of a two-session workshop dealing with the family.

The workshops are sponsored jointly by Lincoln Community Services and the Junior League as part of a comprehensive community involvement seminar.

"No one is born knowing how to be a parent," observed Shirley Rold of the Child Guidance Center. Parents gain expertise in childrearing through "modeling and trial and error."

Parents 'Fearful'

"Parents today are the most fearful group," noted Lotus Nicholas of the Lincoln-Lancaster County Child Care Project. "They are caught in the roles they think they should fulfill, they fear losing the love" of their children.

Parents must recognize the feelings, attitudes, needs and individual personalities of their children from infancy, added Karen Dinsmore, University of Nebraska-Lincoln assistant professor of child development.

"Being a parent is not ownership," Nicholas agreed. "At best, it is a 20-year loan," one that requires flexibility, cooperation, communication and responsibility.

No one childrearing theory "covers all families and all contingencies," Nicholas said. "A solution must be tailored-made" to the situation.

Listening Important

Parents, however, should listen to their children, she advised. "That does not mean relinquishing your final responsibility to make decisions."

What it does mean, Nicholas explained, is that the parent can recognize the child's emotions and be sympathetic, but still firm.

Children often have to oppose their parents "if they are to develop their own individuality," she said.

That does not make "children natural enemies of parents," she observed. "Antagonists? Maybe."

Following the panel discussion, another group tackled the question of family economics.

Participating were Marie Arnot, UNL associate professor of community and regional planning; Dr. Garnet Larson, retired professor of social work; Jesse Payne, executive director of the Lincoln Action Program, and Dave Piester, director of the Legal Aid Society.

Democrat Campaigns On Knees

"I'd rather be a congressman than a housewife," Tom Harkin said. The Democratic candidate in Iowa's 5th Congressional District scrubbed Mrs. Mary Ann Halter's kitchen floor in Des Moines while she watched. He spent the day doing a housewife's routine chores as part of his effort to bring his campaign "down to human terms."

NU Comparison Unit To Hire Consultants

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

After entertaining briefly the notion it should suspend its work pending release of a legislative report, the Governor's Commission on University Funding decided Wednesday to hire professional consultants to analyze data it collects.

Gov. J. James Exon established the commission in August to provide him a comparative analysis of the University of Nebraska and other regional universities.

Unsure of their charge by the governor, commission members discussed at length whether they should submit existing information or hire a full-time staff to collect its own data.

"We can't wait" for the legislative fiscal analysts' report on 1973-74 Big 8 university funding comparisons, expected in mid-November, said Commission Chairman Gus Lieske of Omaha. He noted Exon wants 1974-75 figures on budgets and students.

"I don't think personally," Lieske said, "our job is to pull together reports that other people have done."

But Commissioner Willard Waldo of DeWitt supported using available information. "I can't see spending $250,000 or $500,000" to have consultants prepare "window-dressing" on where NU stands. "That's not really going to mean too much to us."

Instead, Waldo said, the commission should "keep expenditures to a minimum and save our money for results rather than studies." He said the panel should decide where NU needs improvements and proceed on that basis.

Despite what comparisons will show, Waldo said, NU should attempt to improve agriculture programs, for example, to achieve top status "not only in the Big 8, but in the nation."

Besides, "It's next to impossible to make a real comparison" of universities in the region, Waldo said.

That became apparent when commissioners reviewed a subcommittee report on NU Medical Center financing, comparing it with Iowa, Missouri, Oklahoma and Colorado. "Total state support for each enrolled student varied substantially between institutions" and the variances were so great "that the credibility of the analysis is virtually nullified."

Lieske suggested the commission needs "outside assistance to help pull together the information," and members authorized him to hire two consultants, one to focus on the Medical Center, the other to adjust comparative figures for validity among the universities.

Lieske said the consultants will probably be hired "in the next week" from outside Nebraska, and estimated their fees will range from $1,000 to $2,000 each. The commission has a $1,000 budget supplied by the University of Nebraska Foundation.

The consultants will aid in compiling a less ambitious study than a full-time staff could prepare for them, the commissioners decided.

A preliminary report is due in Exon's office on Friday, but Lieske said "if we're really lucky," part of it will be ready on Jan. 1, the final deadline.

Hanes Says Ray Claimed He Was Outside On Sidewalk

Thursday, Oct. 31, 1974 The Lincoln Star 15

MEMPHIS (AP) — James Earl Ray claimed he was standing on a sidewalk outside a rooming house when Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was killed in 1968 and ran away because he knew he was in trouble, Ray's first attorney testified Wednesday.

Arthur Hanes Sr., Birmingham, Ala., testifying in a U.S. District Court hearing on whether Ray should be allowed to nullify an earlier guilty plea in King's death, said Ray told him he had gone to the rooming house and met a contact named

"Raoul," talked with the man and then went downstairs and "had a beer or two."

"He was standing out on the sidewalk in front of the rooming house at 6:01 p.m. when the shot was fired," Hanes told the court. He added that Ray was scared and fled.

Earlier, Ray had testified that when asked about a conspiracy in the slaying, he said he was "never associated with more than one person." He did not identify the person and was not asked his name.

The statement came as Ray concluded his testimony in a U.S. District Court hearing on whether he may withdraw his guilty plea and stand trial in the 1968 assassination of the civil rights leader.

Ray's current attorneys have said Ray identified Raoul to them as a French Canadian he met in Montreal after his escape from the Missouri Penitentiary. After King was shot, Ray fled to London with a Canadian passport. He was traced to England through passport fingerprints checked in Montreal.

Ray earlier in the hearing said he went to the rooming house under the impression he was to discuss gun running.

Hanes' account of Ray's version of his whereabouts when King was killed was the first sworn testimony to challenge police theories that Ray shot King from a bathroom in the rooming house.

Hanes said he had asked Ray 100 times, "Did you fire the shot that killed Dr. King?"

"Invariably the answer was, no," Hanes said.

Hanes said Ray told him that on the night of April 2 his 30-06 rifle was "taken" from a motel in Mississippi and that he didn't see it again "until it was thrown down" with a bundle containing Ray's personal effects and binoculars near the rooming house after the shots were fired.

Hanes said that when the rifle was taken Ray was left a note telling him to come to the rooming house on Memphis' Main Street at 3 p.m. April 4. According to Ray's account, Hanes said, Ray drove into the area and parked seven or eight blocks away.

"He walked to the rooming house and checked in and then his contact contacted him and asked where his car was parked," Hanes said.

According to Ray, Hanes said, the contact had him get the car and park it near the rooming house. Ray then was told to buy the binoculars, Hanes said. Ray returned to a room at the rooming house, according to Hanes' testimony.

"At 5:20 p.m. the contact told him 'Jim, you go on down and get yourself a beer at Jim's grill,'" Hanes gave as Ray's account.

Hanes and his son, Arthur Hanes Jr., were dismissed as Ray's attorneys in November 1968, two days before Ray was scheduled to go on trial for murdering King.

Kopechnes Received $140,923

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP) — The parents of Mary Jo Kopechne received $140,923 as settlement from Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's automobile insurance company for the death of their daughter, an attorney for the woman's family said Wednesday.

Joseph P. Flanagan, the attorney, said the settlement "was strictly with the insurance carrier, the General Accident Group of Philadelphia." He said Kennedy, D-Mass., made no payment out of his own pocket to the Kopechnes.

The amount was proposed by the Kopechnes, who hired an attorney to determine how much their daughter might have made in a lifetime, the attorney said. Miss Kopechne was a political consultant making $15,000 a year when she died in an accident involving a car driven by Kennedy.

Flanagan said a check was sent to the family by the insurance company in the summer of 1970, one year after the accident on Chappaquiddick Island, Mass.

The lawyer said the Kopechnes decided to release the insurance figure settlement to end speculation about it.

The insurance company refused to confirm or deny the figure, other than to acknowledge it had represented Kennedy for several years and that Flanagan "was in position for access to the facts."

Tornado Hits Dodge City

By United Press International

A small tornado hit Dodge City, Kan., Wednesday, causing damage but no injuries, and thunderstorms and rain covered the central and southern plains and the Mississippi Valley.

The National Weather Service said winds up to 80 miles per hour gusted through Waxahachie in north central Texas and a tornado touched down in Dodge City, Kan., damaging several mobile homes and other buildings.

Heavy snow continued in the southern plateau, and Flagstaff, Ariz., reported 14 inches on the ground, a record this early in the season.

There were 12 inches of snow on the ground in some mountain areas in southwest Colorado, and snow warnings were issued for parts of Wyoming.

Fluoridation Good (For Argument)

By The Associated Press
Even the people who disagree on fluoridation seem to agree on one point: It's almost good for an argument.

Unofficial checks indicate that between 150 to 200 Nebraska communities will cast ballots in the coming general election to determine whether local water supplies should be fluoridated. Exact figures were not available because the balloting is handled locally and the secretary of state does not keep track of the issues.

In May of 1973, the Legislature passed a law requiring fluoridation of all municipal water supplies by Jan. 1, 1975. However, the Unicameral included a local option feature in the bill which allows citizens to put the issue to a vote of the people by circulating petitions.

Only 5 OK It
In May of this year, 110 communities rejected fluoridation, while five approved it.

Just one month earlier, opponents of fluoridation scored an apparent clean sweep in special issue balloting as 15 communities rejected fluoridated water supplies.

Most of Nebraska's larger communities already have fluoridated water.

A fight against the fluoridation law was waged in the Unicameral by conservative legislators, including Speaker Richard Proud of Omaha.

Amendment Defeated
In April of 1972, Holbrook Sen. Richard Lewis proposed an amendment to put the decision completely in the hands of city, town and village governing boards. It was defeated 20-25.

The bill that Gov. J. James Exon finally signed into law the next year had the backing of the Nebraska Dental Association and most of the urban members of the Legislature.

Localized opposition to fluoridation has been heated in many communities. Opponents of the idea charge, generally, that long-range effects of fluorides may be harmful, and question its decay-preventing powers.

At one point during the 1972 Unicameral debate, Proud said "I wonder why God didn't order water fluoridated," if it needed to be that way.

Opinion Issued
While the bill was still being hammered out among the legislators last year, the attorney general's office issued an opinion which said, "it is our opinion that LB449 is constitutional and, if passed, it could be enforced." It cited an Ohio court case upholding mandatory fluoridation.

The dental association has argued that "dental problems, primarily decay, can be reduced by 65% through adjusting fluoride levels in the water supply."

In 1973, supporters said comparisons between young people from the communities of Hastings and Superior substantiated the reduced decay claim.

Superior has had fluoridated water since 1950. Hastings' water is not fluoridated.

William Holman of Ord, chief spokesman for the Nebraska Committee for Pure Air and Water Inc., said his group was opposed to mandatory fluoridation because of "the right of the individual to choose his own physician."

Midland College Trustees OK Plans For Art Building

Fremont (AP) — The Midland Lutheran College board of trustees has approved architectural plans for a new art building and authorized the executive committee of the board to award contracts for the building and off-street parking.

The building will cost between $270,000 and $305,000. Estimates for off-street parking for about 345 vehicles range from $92,000 to $125,000, depending on whether the surface is asphalt or concrete.

The board also received a report that over $1.8 million has been raised by the Centennial Development Campaign, launched a year ago.

The fund-raising campaign has a first-phase goal of $3.93 million to construct a new art building, a

Job Numbers Hit 400,678 In March, 1974

Washington (AP) — The number of jobs in private business in Nebraska increased more than 20,000 between March, 1972, and March, 1974, the Department of Commerce said.

The total number of jobs in March 1974, was 400,678, the Department said. Payrolls from those jobs totaled $649.8 million, up $70.2 million from March, 1972.

The largest number of jobs was in Douglas County, where 164,846 persons were employed in the private sector.

Not included in the statistics were employees of federal, state and local governments, self-employed persons, farm workers and those employed in domestic and certain transportation services.

Salaries So Low Teachers Got Food Stamps

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Eight Mississippi teachers got food stamps this spring because their salaries were low enough to make them eligible, state Welfare Commissioner Max Cole said Wednesday.

Cole was called before a legislative committee after C.J. Duckworth, executive secretary of the Mississippi Teachers Association, told them about the food stamp situation.

"I think it's a disgrace in the State of Mississippi for a teacher to be a college graduate . . . and he has to call on food stamps," said state Sen. Perrin Purvis, a committee member.

The minimum salary for teachers in Mississippi is $6,572. Eligibility for food stamps depends on a variety of factors, including size of family.

Duckworth and other education officials have asked the legislature to increase teacher pay at its 1975 session which begins in January.

Winless Dana Seeks To Defeat Hastings

By CHUCK SINCLAIR
State College Writer
Two of the six Nebraska Intercollegiate Athletic Conference teams will close their seasons Saturday afternoon when winless Dana, 0-6-1 battles with Hastings, 4-4, at A. H. Jones Stadium on the Bronco turf.

Hastings, in what head coach Wendell Maupin called, "by far the best defensive effort of the year," blanked Nebraska Wesleyan last week 19-0, limiting the Plainsmen to a minus seven yards rushing and only 37 through the airways.

But the Broncos' new offensive twist was a surprise to many onlookers as the predominantly passing offense was throttled by Wesleyan's total aerial defensive effort.

The game Saturday, although not important for any championships reasons, is vitally important for both schools involved.

Should Dana be able to upset the Broncos, Seever's freshmen and sophomore laden squad, would have a momentum factor to carry them through the off-season.

And Maupin, also with a young squad, could match 1974's 5-4 mark and possibly a second place finish in the NIAC should Concordia topple Doane Saturday.

Besides the Hastings-Dana matchup and the Concordia-Doane battle at Doane, Wesleyan will travel to Midland Saturday afternoon.

Nebraska College Conference champions Kearney State will visit Western Missouri and Chadron will close out the season at Eastern Montana.

Peru and Wayne will both be on the road with the Bobcats testing Culver-Stockton, Mo. and Wayne at Iowa Wesleyan.

Standings,

Premature Selections Haunt Randy York

Coaches aren't the only ones who say things which can come back to haunt them. It can happen to prep writers, too.

For instance, after Holdrege had upset Lexington, 14-13, last Wednesday night in Holdrege, KRVN (Lexington) radio solicited some post-game commentary.

The prep writer responded, in essence, that Lexington seems even more likely after the Holdrege loss to bounce back the following week and whip No. 1-rated Ord.

If it was intended as a casual comment, it wasn't interpreted that way. Radio listeners absorb and remember.

Kearney State College Information Director Don Briggs did. Last Friday at the state high school cross country meet, he reminded that the prep writer said: "I'd almost be willing to bet that... Lexington wins."

Some people label such comments as "sticking your neck out" or "pinning yourself in a corner."

We're stuck and pinned at the same time. No backing out. Lexington is the choice to upset undefeated, top-ranked Ord Friday night at Lexington.

Why stop there though? Another Class B upset is thrown in as a bonus — unranked Norris over fourth-ranked Crete Friday night at Firth.

The state's feature attraction could be at Scribner, the season-long Class C leader, hosting Class B's ninth-ranked Omaha Holy Name.

Scribner coach Dick Tingelhoff is making major adjustments both offensively and defensively this week for the Holy Name test.

"Holy Name runs an unbalanced line and we've never seen one before, so that's a big adjustment," notes Tingelhoff. "And they run a 6-2 defense extremely well and we don't see that either."

"Our blocking assignments will change and our defensive philosophy will have to change almost entirely," adds Tingelhoff. "I guess it boils down to how smart we are."

"I'd be a fool to think we could play these types of Class B schools week in and week out because we couldn't stand the physical grind with only 93 boys in school," admits Tingelhoff.

"But I think we can compete with them on a one-shot basis. At least we'll find out if we can," says Tingelhoff, whose team snapped Class B Wayne's 23-game winning streak two seasons ago.

In games involving Lincoln teams this week, it's:

Lincoln East (8-0) v. Lincoln High (5-3), Friday night, Seacrest Field — Both teams are on the rebound. Lincoln High after being upset and East after near upset.

Lincoln Northeast (7-1) at Ralston (1-7), Friday night — A look at the records indicates the Rockets should coast.

Papillion (1-7) at Lincoln Southeast (6-2), Saturday night, Seacrest Field — The Knights need this one to restore confidence.

Lincoln Pius X (7-1) at Omaha Cathedral (2-6), Saturday night — The 'Bolts continue their impressive No. 1 bid.

Last week's picking effort was 134-35-4 for 788, bringing the season total to 878-291-31 for 751.

Schools Avoiding NU Frosh?

Could the reason three Big Eight schools have called off three jayvee games against the Nebraska freshmen be because of fear of loss to the Huskers might damage their recruiting programs this winter?

Ridiculous, you say? No one at Nebraska has suggested this to me, but in the case of Oklahoma it very well could be the real reason even though the Sooners said they called their game off because they had only 16 players to call on for the contest.

Yet, when practice started back in mid-August, Oklahoma had 127 varsity players and 25 recruited freshmen for a total of 152 men. That doesn't even count any walkons who might have reported.

Nebraska had 129 on its varsity list and 28 freshmen recruits, plus many walkons. That made the Huskers the only Big Eight school with more players than Oklahoma.

Nebraska long has taken a great deal of pride in its freshman program and since 1954, including two victories this season, the NU frosh have a 51-8-0 record.

During that time, the Husker yearlings have played Oklahoma only one time — last season — and the result was a 13-3 victory at Norman.

Since OU's frosh last a game to a junior college the week before they were scheduled to come to Lincoln, it can be speculated that Sooner officials didn't want to take a real pasting, which might have been in the offing.

Frosh Program A Selling Point

I don't know how much a potential recruit takes into consideration freshman game results, but a good solid program certainly can be used as a selling point.

Perhaps, Nebraska is going to come out on top in the future because others in the Big Eight have "copped out" on freshman competition.

Coach Tom Osborne says Missouri used the "lack of people" reason when it called off its scheduled game against the Husker freshmen and says one week later played someone else.

Colorado, the third school to cancel a game, has played four jayvee contests (winning two of them). Last week, the little Buffs defeated Palomar College after earlier losing to Mesa College and splitting games against Wyoming.

It is interesting to note that Kansas State, the school which started with the fewest players of all in the Big Eight, has gone through with its schedule. So has Kansas.

Dan Crendon, sports editor of the Boulder Camera, figures Colorado started with 31 varsity candidates, 22 freshmen and 16 walkons. That totals 119.

Other figures he compiled for the rest of the league don't include walkons, but here they are:

Oklahoma, 127 varsity, 25 freshmen, 152 total; Nebraska 129-28-157; Kansas 100-30-128; Oklahoma State 96-24-119; Missouri 110-25-135; Iowa State 100-30-130; Kansas State 82-22-104.

The numbers game certainly is interesting now, but wait until all schools have to get down to a limit of 105 players receiving financial aid. Then it really will be fun.

A's Hunter Wins 'Young' Award

NEW YORK (AP) — Catfish Hunter, ace of the world champion Oakland A's pitching staff, was named winner of the American League Cy Young Award Wednesday.

Hunter totaled 90 points in voting by a 24-member panel of the Baseball Writers Association of America, and easily defeated Ferguson Jenkins of the Texas Rangers, who finished with 75.

The A's ace was the only pitcher named on each of the 24 ballots and received 12 first-place votes to 10 for Jenkins.

Nolan Ryan of the California Angels was third with 28 points and one first-place vote. The other first-place ballot went to Cleveland's Gaylord Perry, who tied with Luis Tiant of Boston with eight points. Baltimore's Mike Cuellar had six and reliever John Hiller of the Detroit Tigers had one, completing the voting.

Hunter was on a hunting expedition in the North Carolina hills and couldn't be immediately reached for comment, but Oakland owner Charles O. Finley had something to say.

"I'm very proud and happy for him," said Finley. "I've never seen a player who plays with more determination. He's the most tenacious pitcher I've ever seen since I've been in baseball. Tenacious is the word for Jim Hunter. He is also one of the finest gentlemen in the game."

Last year's AL Cy Young winner, Baltimore's Jim Palmer, did not receive a single vote in the balloting by the writers committee composed of two newsmen from each of the league's 12 cities.

Hunter, signed out of Herford, N. C., by Charles O. Finley in 1964, enjoyed his winningest major league season with a 25-12 record for the A's in 1974. It was his fourth consecutive 20-victory season for Oakland. Jenkins also won 25 games for Texas.

Hunter's 2.49 earned run average led the American League and he completed 23 of his 41 starts, throwing six shutouts. He was the winning pitcher in the A's pennant clinching victory over Baltimore, came out of the bullpen to save the first game of the World Series and also was the winning pitcher in Game Three of the Series against the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The veteran right-hander has won 88 games in the past four seasons, and in 10 big league seasons, he has a 161-113 record for the A's, in Kansas City and Oakland.

Hunter pitched the last perfect game in major league history when he set down 27 consecutive Minnesota batters, never allowing a base runner, in a 4-0 victory May 8, 1968.

when he finished third in the Cy Young vote behind Palmer and Ryan.

During the 1974 World Series, Hunter got involved in a salary dispute with Finley. At the time, it was reported that Hunter would claim free agent status because Finley had not paid $50,000 of the pitcher's salary according to the pitcher's wishes.

Hunter had wanted the money placed in annuity insurance to defer federal taxes. But Finley balked, contending that if he had paid the money to an insurance company, he would be unable to deduct it as a club expense. Finley later described the affair as "just a misunderstanding."

Surprise! Ali Doesn't Dance

(c) 1974 New York Times News Service

N'sele, Zaire — Beyond his stucco villa, the Congo River flowed swiftly. On the lawn several dozen Africans, men in their slacks and bright shirts and women in their long dresses, had come for a glimpse of the famous man now that he was the world heavyweight champion again. They stood there quietly, thinking that Muhammad Ali probably was asleep. Five hours earlier he had dethroned George Foreman with an eight-round knockout. But suddenly he appeared. He carried a carved mahogany cane with inlaid ivory. He wore a pale blue short-sleeved shirt, black pants and scuffed work shoes. When he saw Budd Schulbert he shook hands with the author of "The Harder They Fall" and hugged him.

"We can make a pretty good movie now, Ali said.

"The fight turned out pretty good," Schulbert agreed. The plot couldn't be better. In perhaps the most dramatic scenario in boxing history, Ali had regained the heavyweight title at the age of 32 by outpunching a 25-year-old puncher who had recorded 24 consecutive knockouts in a previously unbeaten career. And he had accomplished it here before nearly 60,000 Zairis of what once was known as the Belgian Congo in a spectacle that began at 4 o'clock in the morning. Flags floated in the ring during the American and Zairis anthems. But strangely, Ali did not float like the butterfly he warned he would be. Instead he stung like the bee he once was. He accepted Foreman's punches that had demolished Joe Frazier, Joe (King) Roman and Ken Norton in a total of only 11 minutes and 35 seconds. Then he retaliated with punches that wearied Foreman and finally spun him onto the blue canvas. Muhammad Ali has been looked upon as a buffoon. He has been defiled and dethroned of his title for defying the military draft because of his Black Muslim beliefs. He has been castigated for his cruelty. But he has proved he is a gladiator. He just might be "the greatest," as he has always proclaimed.

"I got off the first punches," Ali said. "He never took a lot of punches before. I took his heart the first round."

blemishes on the brown face that is recognized throughout the world.

"I was talking to George in there," Ali said. "I was saying, 'I'm taking your best shots, George, hit hard, show me something' but he couldn't. After round six, he was tired. I told him, 'you are just an amateur, show me something, hit me hard.' But the man is not that good. The surprise is that I did not dance. For weeks I kept hollering, 'be ready to dance,' but I didn't dance. That was the surprise. That was the trick."

Once again the styles of fighters influenced an outcome that was surprising to many.

"George knocked out Joe Frazier and Ken Norton but I didn't, and yet I knocked him out," Ali said. "Ten years ago I stopped Sonny Liston to win the title after he knocked out Floyd Patterson twice but I never knocked out Patterson and I fought him twice. I could've danced. I was saving that in case I got in trouble."

Behind him, the Africans began to shout, "Ali. Bomaye," the chant that had become his war cry here. He turned and waved.

"George was the champion but all these people were yelling 'Ali, Bomaye' for me," Ali continued. "I learned a special prayer of Allah, what you saw was the power of Allah in helping me win. That must have been Allah in there because I can't punch. My hands were so sore for Frazier and Norton, I needed novacaine. But they were good this time. I'm not known for being a biter. Can you picture me making George Foreman helpless?"

"His punch is strong if he hits you. He still hits hard. But his punches ain't no good after five rounds. You've got to dance on Frazier, got to dance on Norton, but dancin' ain't no good with George because he'll push you around. Dancing doesn't work with him because he fights from a distance. He's not like Frazier who fights in close. That's why I switched to the ropes."

"Whose idea was it not to dance?" he was asked.

"Me," he replied quickly. "I don't have no trainers. They just work with me. I had to beat George at his own game. Once he's there in front of me, I knew I could pop him. He hits hard but he's coming from here. Let me tell you something. He would accept me as his teacher from now on. I told you I was the greatest. The first round, I let him blast his butt off. In the second, I was praying he keeps throwing. I knew I could whomp him. Wasn't that a beautiful heavyweight championship?" He chuckled. "I told him, 'you the champ, George, and I'm beatin' you up.' Don't ever match no bull against a master boxer. The bull is stronger but the matador is smarter."

Patterson was the only other heavyweight champion to hold the title twice.

"I'm greater than Patterson was. He fought a white fella, that Ingemar Johansson, and won it back the next year. I fought a strong good black scientific boxer (Liston) who beat Patterson twice, shipped him at 22, and 10 years later I fought another black fighter. Black fighters better than white fighters. That's really getting that title back. Wise people listened to me but a few fools bet on him."

"Was this your greatest fight?" someone asked.

"The greatest fight I ever had was the first fight with Joe Frazier, had to go 15, off three and a half years, jaw swollen, that was the great... And the second fight with Norton was my most satisfying. Frazier's a better fighter than this man. George kept looking over to Dick Sadler for instructions. He's a mechanical man. He didn't want to take no whippin'. That man probably could have got up. Do I look like a fellow who's got a few more years left? George looks like he be through before me. This was like the Titanic sinking."

Ali smiled slyly.

"Been a great day," he said. "President Ford called."

"Did he?" someone bit.

"No," said Ali, laughing.

As he turned and strolled toward his villa, he pretended to punch a few of the Zairis. Everybody laughed.

"Did it mean more to you," he was asked now, "to win back the title here in Africa, the home of your ancestors?"

"It's a good feeling but it don't mean nothin'." Muhammad Ali said. "I'd rather have done it in Madison Square Garden or Yankee Stadium because that's where the bulk of the non-believers are. The nonbelievers, the real right crowd."

won 20-14 in a shocking upset.

Last year, as a junior, Hunt suffered a back injury which ultimately required surgery for a ruptured disc.

"I don't understand the injuries," he says. "I never thought I'd have the problems I did. But at least I've come back and I'm happy to be in the lineup."

Hunt was in and out of the Colorado lineup as a sophomore and junior, but he's managed to avoid any major physical problems so far in 1974.

Still, it hasn't been all fun. He smashed the ring finger on his left hand against Michigan and has had "umpteenth dozen stitches" taken on the bridge of his nose and on his chin. The cut on his nose has been resewn eight times.

"If I could have looked into the future, I might have been tempted to play baseball," he says. "But I have no regrets. Football has been the biggest part of my life. And I enjoy playing the game."

Hunt, who has started at a linebacker position the past two weeks in place of injured Jeff Geiser, says he is sold on Colorado's new defensive philosophy under Coach Bill Mallory.

"Instead of reading and reacting, we attack and force them to react to us," he says. "Consequently, the linebackers have to be more active."

Humm Ailing Again

By Associated Press

Nebraska's farmers, who have been suffering through a very dry year, were happy with the rain that fell generously over most of the state Wednesday, but not Nebraska football coach Tom Osborne.

The precipitation was not the only thing that had Osborne talking Wednesday, he has another, much bigger worry — quarterback Dave Humm is ailing again.

Humm didn't throw a pass Wednesday as the Cornhuskers moved indoors to continue their preparations for Saturday's game at Colorado.

Osborne said the left-handed signal caller from Las Vegas, Nev., is still suffering from a slight back injury he suffered in last weekend's 7-3 win over Oklahoma State.

Although the injury is not serious, Osborne expressed concern over Humm's condition.

The Husker mentor has good reason to be concerned, because the Huskers have lost twice this season, to Missouri and Wisconsin, and Humm was injured in both contests.

"I think he'll (Humm) be alright, but it does worry me a bit at the moment," Osborne said.

Another Husker, linebacker John Starkebaum, is still ailing after suffering a strained knee in the OSU game.

Kings Edge Bucks

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Nate Archibald scored 30 points and Sam Lacey dominated the boards down the stretch as Kansas City-Omaha overcame a 12-point fourth quarter deficit to down Milwaukee, 99-97, for the Kings' fifth NBA victory in six games Wednesday night.

The Bucks led 90-85 with six minutes, 36 seconds to play, but the Kings' defense blanked Milwaukee for 5½ minutes to move ahead, 94-90. Twice in the span, the Kings shut off Milwaukee without a shot for 24 seconds.

Kevin Restani finally broke the ice for Milwaukee with 1:06 left and a three-point play by Lucius Allen put the Bucks in front, 95-94. A 25-footer by Archibald and a stolen-ball layup on a Buck pass-in at center court by rookie Scott Wedman sealed the victory.

Allen was high for Milwaukee with 23 points. Lacey pulled down 23 rebounds, eight in the final period, and Ron Behagen also grabbed 12 off the boards for the Kings.

The Bucks hit 26 of 51 from the field to lead, 56-50, at the half. The Kings managed only 36 per cent from the field.

New NFL Franchises?

NEW YORK (AP) — Representatives of the 26 National Football League teams at their annual meeting here said Wednesday additional franchises will be awarded to Seattle and Tampa, Fla., in 1976.

It also was revealed at the meeting that two additional franchises will be awarded, and these also could be in the league by 1976. Sites of these franchises are yet to be determined.

Morning Briefing

BOXING

A rematch with world heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali is being sought by handlers of Ken Norton, who broke Ali's jaw, won a split, 12-round decision March 31 and then lost a split, 12-round decision to Ali Sept. 10.

One of the two judges of the George Foreman-Muhammad Ali heavyweight championship fight said he thought American referee Zach Clayton had been a little too fast in counting Foreman out.

The defense rested its case after an ex-convict, whose testimony helped send Rubin "Hurricane" Carter to prison for life, testified he fingered the former boxer because "I was facing a lot of time" behind bars.

Former world champion Emile Griffith, a five-time holder of the middleweight and welterweight titles, will fight Vito Anzures Nov. 22 in Madison Square Garden.

SEAGRAM DISTILLERS CO., N.Y.C.
AMERICAN WHISKY-A BLEND. 65 PROOF.

The Seven'n Cider.

It's autumn. And time for cider.
Only this autumn, it's time for the "Seven'n Cider."
Just mix fresh cider with Seagram's 7 Crown, over plenty of ice.

Seagram's 7 Crown. It's America's favorite.

The Seven'n Cider: To a mug or tall glass filled with ice, add 1 1/2 oz. Seagram's 7 Crown. Fill with fresh, sweet apple cider.

It's All Outdoors

By Tom Vint
Outdoor Editor

Polls Don't Rate

Why do folks bother reading polls, figures, graphs or charts depicting participation in this or that interest in nature? I'm a statistical nut myself, but I'm becoming a firm believer in not believing what I read any more.

Outdoor Recreation surveys are prime examples. One expert, or at least an experienced poll watcher said recently, "You can get just about any response you want to get. It's all in the way you ask the question or word it."

Amen. And don't forget about the season in which the poll is taken, outdoor enthusiasts. Let's cite another example.

A year or two ago, the Department of the Interior's inner agencies made a couple of surveys (trying to duplicate efforts were such as Fish and Wildlife Service, National Wildlife Service, and several private outdoor organizations) to determine what outdoor America is up to.

Hunting, as a participation sport, fared poorly in one poll and did well in another. Something like 8 per cent of the public, acknowledged they hunted in the first and almost 20 per cent gave their nod in the second.

So why the discrepancy? Several things can determine why hunting was hindered in the first and bolstered in the second. No. 1 would be the season in which the poll was taken. The first proved to be a springtime poll when hunting is one of the furthest things from the minds of most. Second was an early fall poll when folks think more about hunting.

And the people surveyed would also affect the results. For example, a random sampling of city dwellers would not reveal much of a hunting interest. By the same token, a random sampling of rural dwellers would inflate actual hunting populace percentages.

Reliability in Polls Questioned

About the only actual and reliable poll would be the headcounts of participation activities. Granted, the expense of such a sampling would be not in the same ball park with costs involved with a phone survey, hence more phone surveys.

Now, about the questions. If someone would ask me, "Do you indulge in the slaughter of poor little wildlife creatures?" I would say no. I think there's a difference but you don't generally get a chance to explain the difference during a phone survey.

Nebraska's Game and Parks Commission may also be guilty of a similar poll-taking discrepancy. For instance, hunting is not listed or logged in three of the major charts depicting outdoor participation activities.

The charts don't say they are summer-time or springtime activities charted. They only say "Percent of 1972 resident population participating in selected activities." Then a projected usage is logged for 1990 population interests via modern trends.

As a hunter, I take some exception in being an activity not selected in a State Comprehensive Outdoor Recreation Plan (SCORP) to be charted with other popular (and some less popular) outdoor activities. I take that stand knowing the charts were formulated via a spring-summer survey and hunting figures where not as yet compiled.

The 1972 SCORP shows hunting upland game to be a participation sport enjoyed by some 20-plus percent of the state's populace. Nebraska has always been over the national average where hunting is concerned, and the national average is around 14 per cent for hunting interests.

Game and Parks Officials also indicated the hunting percentage could have been higher. That's encouraging, but why not log hunting on the charts with the other outdoor recreational activities? At 20-plus per cent, it would rate right behind stream fishing in popularity, but nobody would ever know without a closer look at the finer print.

Hunting needs all the help it can get, and from the one state agency supposedly giving backing to hunting interests in Nebraska, it shouldn't be too much to ask from the Game and Parks Commission.

Washington Tops Big Eight Stats

Kansas City (AP) — Joe Washington, the slippery Oklahoma speedster, leads Big Eight Conference individual football statistics in four categories, scoring, rushing, total offense and punt returns.

Washington has taken over undisputed possession of the league lead in point producing with 54 points. Don Westbrook of Nebraska is second with 48 points and Phil Danowsky and Tom Goedjen, both of Iowa State, tied for third with 42.

According to Big Eight Service Bureau figures released Wednesday, Washington has rushed 96 times for 828 yards and a game average of 138 yards behind him are Laverne Smith of Kansas with 110 carries for 719 yards and a 102.7-yard game average and Jayhawk teammate Robert Miller with 100 for 579 and 96.5.

In total offense, Washington has exactly the same figures to top that department Dave Humm of Nebraska is in second place with 127.6 average yards per game and Scott McMichael of Kansas in third with 112 yards.

Washington has replaced Missouri's Tony Gillick in punt returns, having run back 13 for 183 yards or an average of 14.1 yards.

Humm has jumped ahead of McMichael in passing. He has connected on 61 of 96 tosses for 816 yards while McMichael has hit on 49 of 101 for 752 yards. No. 3 is Steve Grogan of Kansas State, 48 of 110 for 562 yards.

Mark Miller of Missouri is the new leader in pass receptions. He has pulled down 21 for 241 yards and four touchdowns. Emmett Edwards of Kansas, who led a week ago, has caught 19 for 412 yards and two touchdowns and Westbrook 18 for 291 yards and five touchdowns.

Goedjen is ahead in kick scoring with his 42 points on 15 of 15 extra points and nine field goals. Trailing him are Mike Coyle of Nebraska with 39 points and Abby Daigle of Oklahoma State with 38.

NU Harriers To Big 8 Meet

Nebraska's cross country team travels to Iowa State Saturday to compete in the 42nd annual Big Eight Cross Country Championships.

The meet, which starts at 10:30 a.m. will be run over a five-mile course at the Ames International Country Club.

Nebraska will take an 0-4 record into the conference meet. The Huskers have lost to Big Eight opponents Kansas State (16-43) and Missouri (15-49). Nebraska has also lost to Wisconsin (15-49) and Drake (19-36).

Sophomore letterman Keith Whitaker will lead the Huskers, joined by freshmen Harold Stelzer and Leif Olsson, sophomores Gale Wheeler and Matt Reckmeyer and junior David Johnston. Nebraska cross country coach Frank Sevigne said he is undecided as to who the seventh squad man will be. Sevigne said Missouri and Kansas State are the co-favorites going into Saturday's meet.

HANDI-FOOTBALL RATINGS

HOW TO USE THE RATINGS
ILLUSTRATION: Air Force versus Yale
If the Air Force were to meet Yale on a neutral field, Air Force's Handi-Rating of 21 would hold a 7-point advantage over Yale's 28 rating.
If the game were played at AIR FORCE, allow Air Force 3 points for playing at home. AIR FORCE would become a 10-point favorite.
If the game were played at YALE, allow Yale 3 points for playing at home. This would make Air Force a 4-point favorite.

East Wins Gym Title

Lincoln East registered a 137.69 to 129.07 dual gymnastics win over Lincoln Southeast Tuesday night at East's Gym to capture the mythical city championship.

The win gives the Spartans a sweep of dual meets against city opponents this season. Tracy Turner, second in all-around competition behind Southeast's Kirk Fridrich, paced East to the win.

Both teams will join Lincoln Northeast, Lincoln High, Papillion, Millard and Ralston in the Eastern I-80 championships Saturday at Millard.

DOES LANCASTER COUNTY NEED SUNDAY BEER?

We know from his voting record, County Commissioner Robert E. Colin voted several times for more Sunday beer for Lancaster County. We also know that the people of Lincoln can out vote the people of rural Lancaster County. Therefore we need your help. If you don't believe in Sunday beer for Lincoln and would not support it with your vote, please do not vote for the increase of sale of Sunday beer in Lancaster County. If you believe in fair play and good government, this is the time to go to the polls and be counted. Remember a vote for Robert E. Colin is a vote for Sunday beer. In case you might be interested, Kenneth E. Bourne was the only County Commissioner who voted against Sunday beer in Lancaster County. Your vote is very important. It determines the kind of community you live in.

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplaine

Bahia San Carlos — After five days at sea, friendships become strong as a wire splice. "Whenever you're in Pomona, be sure to phone!" (They dwindle off to a Christmas card. "We ought to send a card to Whatshisname. You know. The ones we met on the ship." But in the two weeks of cruising, new friends are warming. We look forward to seeing them each dawn day.)

In the sunstruck afternoon, the Island Princess dropped anchor in blue Bahia San Carlos and a Mexican real estate man waited for us on the shore.

The real estate man ran up and down, offering to show condominiums that begin at $19,000. "Next year they will be worth $25,000!"

The highway runs a few miles from the bay to bustling little Guaymas. But you couldn't get me in here with a warrant. From April to November it's hot as a Sheriff's pistol.

Behind the coast highway — 20 or 30 miles — there's a rocky, dirt-tracked road that was once El Camino Real The Royal Highway.

Father Kino, the industrious Jesuit, walked along it, founding stone-and-adobe fortress churches. Preaching the Holy Word to wild, marvelling Indians. The explorer Coronado came through the land, swords sharpened and spurs a-jingle. The rich Seven Cities of Cibola lay somewhere over the northern horizon. His soldiers cursed the heat and dreamed of gold and cool patios in Spain.

The inland towns are quiet, lost places now. You reach them on bumpy dirt roads: Ures — where the Jesuit order had headquarters for northern Mexico.

Arizpe — it was once the frontier capital for all Spanish lands from here to Canada. De Anza who founded San Francisco is buried in the church.

Alamos — once it was so rich that a mine owner paved the path from his home to the church with silver bricks.

The real estate man was full of enthusiasm: "We expect — without doubt, Señor — that Bahia San Carlos will be more popular than Acapulco!"

Some years ago I stayed at the hotel — B.C. (Before condominiums.) I tried to buy some land — it was terribly cheap. Immediately the owner jumped the price five times.

He was amazed that anyone wanted the land at all. But if they did, he intended to charge all he could. (I've been thankful ever since that I didn't get it.)

It took me the first offer. The Father of Bahia San Carlos. (Copyright Chronicle Publishing Co 1974)

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

By SIDNEY OMARR

Forecast For Thursday

Aries women I found fascinating. Belle Davis and Gloria Swanson. Both are friends of astrology, knowledgeable about the subject and quick to defend it.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Accent is on payment, collection — and the finish of a long project. Don't sell yourself short. Concentrate on future — stop brooding about "what might have been."

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You get "second chance" — a new start. Be independent, dynamic — stand tall for principles. You will meet someone who causes you to defend your position. Be grateful for stimulus. Also, be conspicuous. Wear bright colors.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) What was hidden will come to light. Don't be afraid of discovery. Truth really will make you free — and strong. Know it and respond accordingly.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Good lunar aspect highlights wish fulfillment. You will be happier than usual. One you adore could pay meaningful compliment. Be gracious and have no truck with false modesty. You get paid for past efforts.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Opposition should be regarded as healthy challenge. You deal with Aquarius Taurus, Scorpio persons. Promotion, power, standing in community — these could be highlighted. Unique honor may be in offing.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your desire to know, to gain information comes to forefront. Advertise, call, write — clear lines of communication. Deal with persons who are alive, not moribund, not whining, complaining and tearing down, with nothing to offer in return.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Costs, appearances, luxury items — and your persuasive voice — all come into play. Mate, partner is concerned about returns sales, receipts, overall budget. Be diplomatic but refuse to abandon dream.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) Full moon position accents your views, ability to relate to others — your cooperation, your mate. A legal matter needs immediate attention. Get expert advice. Be realistic. Don't see only as you wish — see as exists.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) This career position accents your views, ability to relate to others — your cooperation, your mate. A legal matter needs immediate attention. Get expert advice. Be realistic. Don't see only as you wish — see as exists.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Love creativity, children and changes — all fit into current pattern. You finish project. You impart style. Most persons become aware of your efforts.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) You are able to overcome barriers — you may do some "tearing down" for purpose of rebuilding. Another Aquarian — and a Leo — are in picture. Accent is on construction, home, basic values and financial approach.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Short trip quick ideas, somewhat of a showdown.

Anne Has To Settle For Rolls Royce

London (UPI) — Princess Anne tried it the traditional way by horse-drawn carriage, but in the end she had to settle for Rolls Royce.

The royal coach carrying the Princess to Parliament for an address by Queen Elizabeth didn't make it Tuesday. One of the two horses reared back, kicked a trace and injured its fetlock.

The coachmen managed to bring the team to a halt on the mall near St. James Palace.

A Buckingham Palace Rolls Royce at the rear of the procession was ordered to rescue the stranded princess and her husband, Capt. Mark Phillips, and it got them to Parliament in time to hear the queen address a joint session of the House of Commons and House of Lords.

N.Y. Patrolman Pleads Guilty To Scribbling

NEW YORK (AP) — Patrolman Stephen Lucadamo pleaded guilty Tuesday to scribbling a remark about his superiors on the wall of the men's room in his station house.

"I only wrote once," he told a police department assistant trial commissioner. "I did it in a fit of anger. It was an uncomplimentary remark."

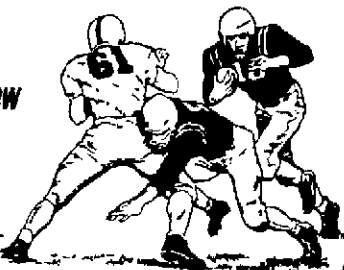

Assistant Commissioner Milt Gamburg fined the 28-year-old Lucadamo 10 days' pay for his public display of his feelings.

Cry Only Too True
Paterson, N.J. (UPI) — The 79-year-old retired pastor of St. Boniface Church was slain as he cried "my God, they are killing me" to a parishioner on the telephone.

Clearing Job Nearly Done

CAIRO (AP) — Although the job of clearing tons of unexploded war debris from the Suez Canal is nearly over, Egyptian officials say there are many months of work ahead before the 103-mile-long waterway can reopen.

Canal authority chairman Mamour Ahmed Mashour told newsmen Wednesday he hoped the canal would open "some time in the first half of 1975."

Earlier, Mashour had been quoted by the Cairo press as saying the canal would reopen in March.

Mashour said Egypt must buy hundreds of navigation devices abroad and install them before the canal can open to international shipping for the first time since the June 1967 Arab-Israeli war.

Sugar Refiner Increases Commercial Price

NEW YORK (AP) — A second large sugar refiner on Wednesday boosted its sugar prices to commercial customers, joining the latest round of increases kicked off Tuesday by Amstar Corp., the nation's biggest sugar refiner.

It was the second price hike for the sugar companies in two weeks.

Sucrest Corp., a big cane and beet sugar refiner, raised the price of sugar sold in 100-pound bags to bakeries, confectioners and soda-pop manufacturers by $3.85.

The hike lifts the price of refined sugar to $53.25 per 100-pound bag. Bulk granulated and No. 2 liquid sugar prices rose to $52.85 per 100 pounds to commercial customers.

The Sucrest increase will not be reflected in supermarket prices of sugar packaged in five-pound bags for household consumption. That will take a separate announcement, the company said.

On Friday, Amstar raised its wholesale price of sugar packaged for home use about eight cents per five-pound bag to $2.52 per five-pound package.

The price of a five-pound bag in supermarkets began the year at around 79 cents before crop failures and broadening profit margins of companies sent sugar prices soaring.

Amstar says its latest price increases represent a "straight raw cost" pass-through to customers. The company said raw sugar prices rose this year from less than 10 cents a pound to over 40 cents per pound.

Application For Federal Grant OKd

Grand Island (AP) — The Central Nebraska Technical Community College Area board of governors has approved an application for a federal grant of over $200,000.

The grant, totaling $208,740, would aid in funding four projects: A multi-campus evaluation of instruction; a multi-campus diagnostic center; additional instructors in individual instruction programs; and additional development of short term courses relating to community services.

If the grant application is approved, the CNTCC area would provide $102,000 in "in-kind" services and $2,500 in cash.

The CNTCC board requested about $439,000 in state funds for new programs. The new programs are dental hygiene, dietetic technician, printing technician, medical laboratory technician, medical office assistants, bio-medical electronics, child care, physical therapy, media technician and criminal justice.

The board appointed board member Ralph Kissinger to the legislative committee being formed by the Nebraska Association of Community Colleges. The committee will propose legislation and work for its passage.

Appointed associate dean of students at Central Technical Community College in Hastings was Mrs. Myrna Cassel.

Mrs. Cassel joined the CTCC faculty in 1969 as an instructor in Human Relations and Sociology. She was named assistant dean of students in July.

Wyoming Men Charged In Nebraska Burglary

Torrington, Wyo. (UPI) — Three Laramie, Wyo., men were charged Wednesday with the Monday burglary of the Gun Mart at Gering, Neb.

Torrington police said 14 of the guns stolen were recovered and that serial numbers matched the Gun Mart's inventory.

The men, Jerry Allgeier, 25; Robert Britton, 24, and Daniel Chapman, 23, were expected to waive extradition, police said.

Seven of the guns recovered were found in a truck in which the three men were arrested and seven others at the home of Allgeier's parents, according to Lt. Bob Tapster of the Torrington Police department.

Glenn Schwartzkopf, investigator for the Gering police department, said the men said they had buried other guns taken in the burglary somewhere in the Laramie area.

Recall Issued For Cadillacs

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors said Wednesday it is recalling some 270,000 late-model Cadillacs to check a possible defect in the steering linkage idler assembly system.

Covered by the recall are all 1973 and 1974 Cadillacs, except Eldorados.

GM said no accidents have been reported as a result of the defect.

GM said the inspection and necessary repairs will be made at no cost to owners.

Burlington To Sell Right-Of-Way

Scottsbluff (UPI) — About 27 miles of former right-of-way owned by the Burlington Northern Railroad in Morrill, Sioux and Scotts Bluff Counties will be put up for bids Nov. 6, the railroad said Wednesday.

The 27 miles include "beet spurs" of eight miles each near Bayard and Mitchell and one 11 miles long near Scottsbluff.

The average width of the land up for sale is 100 feet, according to Jan Bostick, of St. Paul, Minn., manager of sales for Burlington's industrial development department.

Lessees and adjoining landowners who wish to buy the land will receive preference, he said.

Storm Pounds Franklin; Rain Falls Across State

A damaging storm, described by some as a rare autumn tornado, descended upon the south central Nebraska community of Franklin during the noon hour Wednesday, causing extensive property damage but no injuries.

The storm was part of a severe weather system which moved through the state Wednesday, bringing heavy rain to parts of eastern and central Nebraska.

At the Corner Cafe in Franklin, the back roof was ripped off, according to owner Ralph Tanquary.

The Franklin County sheriff's office said a number of windows around the city's main street were broken and several store signs were blown down.

An old metal building in Franklin was destroyed by the high winds, which spread parts of the building up and down the main street. One of the pieces of the building sliced through a power line, causing a 30-minute outage in the downtown area of Franklin.

The northeast residential section of Franklin was also hit. The high winds took a porch off one home.

Thunderstorms occurred in Lincoln throughout the morning and afternoon Wednesday and brought 1.31 inches of needed moisture to the city. A heavy fog covered the city early in the day.

Heavy rain, strong winds and a little hail were reported in Clay County by the sheriff's office. Rainfall at Clay Center totaled between 1.75 to 2.00 inches.

Wilber received a downpour, high winds and marble-sized hail. Hard rains were also reported at Fairbury, Wahoo, Nelson and Red Cloud.

Only 25 of an inch fell at Hebron, Thayer County Sheriff

Jim Johnson said.

Late Wednesday afternoon, Kimball in extreme western Nebraska, where the temperature was down to 37 degrees, was getting sleet with thunder.

Precipitation totaled 1.16 inches three miles northwest of Gibbon. The National Weather Service also listed Wolbach 1.34 inches; Creston 1.30; Stanton 1.12; Norfolk .96; Neligh .87; Grand Island .74; Omaha .73; Howells .65; Mullen .63; Valentine and Burwell .55; Scottsbluff .40; and Chadron .08.

Continued rains were forecast in eastern Nebraska Thursday. The NWS 30-day outlook for Nebraska calls for temperatures to average above the seasonal normals with precipitation also expected to be above normal for the month.

Market Posts Its Second Sharp Gain

New York (AP) — The stock market built up its second sharp gain in a row despite some periodic profit taking Wednesday in the heaviest trading in nearly three weeks.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials piled a 13.69 advance to 673.03 on top of Tuesday's 25.50 surge and climbed back within a fraction of the 673.50 closing peak it reached in the sharp rally early this month.

The over-all New York Stock Exchange tally showed 953 advances and 448 declines among the 1,797 issues traded.

Big Board volume, at 20.13 million shares, was the heaviest since Oct. 10, when it reached a high for the year at 26.36 million.

The upward push, like Tuesday's, drew on no single dramatic news development. Brokers said it seemed to grow instead out of a variety of hopes and expectations:

— Continuing expectations of a further decline in short-term interest rates.

— Speculation that some oil-producing countries soon might make at least a symbolic price reduction.

— Talk that chances were improving for a settlement in contract talks in the coal industry in time to avert a long strike and the pressures that it would exert on such vital sections of the economy as the steel industry.

Monte Gordon at Dreyfus Corp. said technical forces within the market itself appeared to be working strongly in support of the rally.

In addition, he observed, investors also were sensing "a moderation of inflationary pressures in the context of an economy that is slowing down, with the hope that that slowdown can be contained within manageable proportions."

Occidental Petroleum led the NYSE active list, up 1/2% at 11 1/2% in a general strong showing among oil stocks.

Schlumberger gained 4 1/2% to 106% on sharply higher third-quarter earnings to lead a similar upward trend in oil service and drilling stocks.

The hope surrounding the coal negotiations helped boost North American Coal 1 1/2% to 26 1/2% and Pittston 1% to 34 1/2%.

MSL Industries, one of the day's strongest percentage gainers, was up 7 1/2% at 49 1/2%. Allegheny Corp. said that after a second consideration of its plan to offer $50 a share for MSL stock, it had decided to proceed with it.

Purulor, which raised its dividend, climbed 1 1/2% to 18 1/2%. USLIFE lost 1 1/2% to 10 1/2%. The company reported lower third-quarter earnings.

In the glamor group, McDonald's added 2 to 35 1/2%. American Home Products was up 1 1/2% to 36 1/2%. IBM rose 1 1/2% to 193, and Pitkin advanced 1 1/2% to 22 1/2%.

The American Stock Exchange volume leader was Houston Oil & Minerals, down 1/4% at 28.

In the over-the-counter market, the NASDAQ composite index closed at 64.88, up 1.21.

CTU Earnings Up

Earnings are up at the Central Telephone and Utilities Corp. Primary earnings for the 12 months ending Sept. 30 increased to $2.08 from $1.85 for the 12 months before. Net income advanced 15.6% to $40,693,000.

Third quarter primary earnings were 49 cents per common share, up from 44 cents for the third quarter of 1973. Net income rose 18.3% to $9,879,000.

Joseph Gaida, Gerontologist, Elected Fellow

Portland, Ore. (UPI) — Joseph Gaida, executive director of the Nebraska Commission on Aging, was elected a fellow in the Gerontological Society section on social research, planning and practice.

Gaida, 28, is believed to be one of the youngest ever selected for this honor.

Fellowship requirements include an advanced degree, more than five years of responsible work in the field of gerontology and unique contributions in the areas of gerontological academics and practice.

Firm May Be Sold

Minneapolis. Minn. (AP) — General Mills, Inc., has announced an agreement in principle to acquire General Interiors, Inc., a Charlottesville, Va., furniture firm, for about $19 million at current market prices.

Poll: Economy Is Key Issue

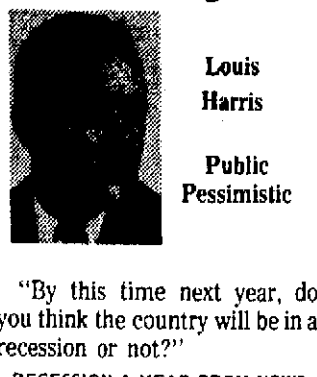

By LOUIS HARRIS
As the 1974 off-year elections draw near, the dominant issue preoccupying the American people is the state of the economy, and a record 74% of the public believes the country is in a recession. But the gravity of public concern can be measured in the 64% — also the highest ever recorded in a Harris Survey — that feel the recession will last at least into the fall of 1975.

Traditionally, hard economic times work against the party that occupies the White House, and 1974 appears to be no exception. President Ford's efforts to control inflation receive no better than a 55-37% negative rating, and, by 51-16%, most people believe the Democrats can do a better job. The major burden of the fight to control the economy will fall upon the shoulders of Republican candidates running for Congress this next Tuesday.

Public feeling about a recession was reflected in a late September survey of a cross section of 1,544 households across the country, which asked: "Do you feel the country is in a recession today or not?"

While in the past four years pluralities and even majorities of the public have been pessimistic about the present and future state of the economy, today's results are the most pessimistic since the question was first asked in 1970. But what distinguishes the present recession from those in the past is that unemployment and the cost of living are both rising at the same time. The roots of public pessimism therefore are not hard to find: Eighty-eight per cent believe that prices are still rising faster than they were a year ago, 64% think they will continue to rise just as fast or faster in the next year and 43% feel that unemployment in their own local areas has increased in the past 12 months.

As a result of this lack of confidence, more people are now inclined to cut back on their purchases and investments and to put money in savings than they were at any time earlier this year. But this kind of consumer behavior can cause the recession to snowball.

The political impact of public feeling about the economy cannot be anything but bad news for Republicans running for office in November. Back in the spring of 1973, the Republicans were holding their own in the off-year election contest, running almost precisely the same as they had in the 1972 congressional elections. At that time, a majority of the public, 51-33%, felt the country was not in a recession, and a plurality felt the nation would not be in one a year later. Today, the readings on all of the barometers have turned around. And public feeling about the economy should prove to be one of the greatest factors determining the outcome of this November's election.

Teamsters Settle Dispute With 2 Food Distributors

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Teamsters Union Local 955 settled wage disputes Wednesday with two major wholesale food distributors and was to meet Thursday with representatives of Safeway Stores, Inc.

Early Wednesday, drivers and warehousemen employed by Associated Wholesale Grocers approved a new wage clause calling for wage increases of 14 per cent—80 cents an hour—in the first year and 10 per cent—$7.5 cents—in the second year.

Virgil Keefer, local president, announced Wednesday night union members employed by Fleming Foods Co., approved a three-year plan that provides the same increases as Associated's for the first two years, and 50 cents an hour in the third year.

Associated Wholesale Grocers and Fleming Foods serve hundreds of chain and independent food stores in the Kansas City metropolitan area, which includes some 1.5 million residents. Settlement of these wage disputes relieved the possibility that food-delivery services would be seriously hampered by week's end because A&P stores, which have a no-strike agreement with the Teamsters, was the only outlet not threatened by strike action.

Pickets appeared Wednesday in front of Safeway stores for the first time and continued demonstrating at Milgram Food Stores outlets, as they have since Monday.

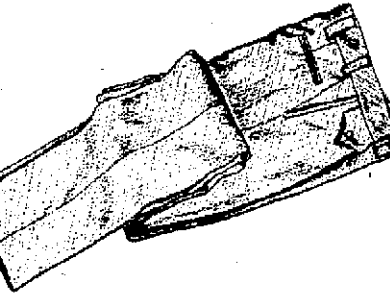

Keefer said union negotiators were to meet at 2 p.m. Thursday with Safeway representatives. The union was unsuccessful in attempts to reach A&P officials Wednesday, Keefer said.

Controls Urged On Beef Imports

Washington (UPI) — President Ford, facing pre-election complaints from livestock producers caught in a cost-price squeeze, listened Wednesday to industry spokesmen whose proposals included import controls on beef and higher supports for milk.

Spokesmen for the American National Cattlemen's Association indicated in advance of their White House meeting they hoped to urge Ford to revive beef import controls effective next Jan. 1. The controls have been suspended since mid-1972.

Glenn Lake, a North Branch, Mich., dairy farmer and president of the National Milk Producers Federation, added in a statement prepared for the meeting that dairymen "have their backs against the wall in a fight for survival."

He urged Ford to help by ordering hikes in milk price supports and by refusing to allow increased dairy imports while U.S. farm prices are below production costs.

White House spokesmen said 24 farmers and farm organization leaders were invited to the session with Ford to represent producers of beef, pork, milk and poultry.

The plight of the livestock-dairy-poultry producers recently has been attributed to a combination of forces including temporarily heavy output of some items like beef and soaring feed costs brought on by a smaller than expected 1974 harvest.

Leaders of the beef cattle producers say their industry has been losing money heavily for many months and they face an even more critical situation in the future because all other major beef importing nations have placed embargoes on imports. Unless the United States follows suit, a spokesman said, it will become a dumping ground for the world's beef surplus.

In addition to a restoration of import controls which would limit but not halt imports, cattlemen earlier had urged a second step — a complete embargo on U.S. imports until other nations relax their restrictions.

Spokesmen for poultry producers, who have cut output recently because of high feed expenses, have been urging steps including adoption of government policies designed to assure adequate domestic feed supplies by keeping a close rein on export sales.

Standard Of California Gains 32%

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A 32 per cent gain in third quarter earnings was reported Wednesday by Standard Oil Co. of California, the nation's fifth-largest oil firm. Sales and revenues more than doubled over last year.

The earnings were $299 million or $1.77 a share, compared with $226 million or $1.33 a share for last year's third quarter.

Board Chairman H. J. Haynes said that the third quarter contained essentially no inventory profits. He said the earnings for the first half of 1974 were substantially higher because of inventory gains from Mideast oil.

He said third quarter sales and other revenues rose to $4.8 billion, compared to $2.3 billion during the 1973 quarter.

Standard's earnings gains were 91 per cent in 1974's first quarter and 57 per cent in the second quarter.

Staley Has Reservations About Gibson

WASHINGTON (AP)—Oren Lee Staley, president of the National Farmers Organization, says farmers are questioning the appointment of Asst. Commerce Secretary Andrew E. Gibson as the new head of the Federal Energy Administration.

Gibson, 52, who resigned last March as president of the Interstate Oil Transport Co., of Philadelphia, was named to the post by President Ford Tuesday, succeeding John Sawhill.

In a telephone interview, Staley said farmers are questioning Gibson's appointment in light of his background with the Philadelphia firm. However, Staley said he felt that Gibson should be given a chance to show what he can do.

"It makes farmers suspicious . . . they have a reason to believe that there is something going on when someone within the oil industry is appointed to such an important position," Staley said.

The NFO head added, "On the other hand, you need somebody who knows something about the problem, and, it's hard to prejudice anyone until they have first had an opportunity to fulfill their responsibility."

Staley said one of Gibson's more important responsibilities toward farmers will be the allocation of oil to fertilizer producers.

Social Security Taxes To Take Bigger Paycheck Bite

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government announced Wednesday that it will take more Social Security taxes out of millions of upper income workers' paychecks next year, but allow retirees to earn more money without losing federal benefits.

The changes were required by law to keep pace with rising wages and higher Social Security payments, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare said.

Effective Jan. 1, Social Security taxes will be levied on $14,100 of each wage earner's income, up from the present $13,200.

HEW estimated that about 19 million workers, or one out of every five covered by Social Security, earn more than $13,200. They and their employers each will have to pay up to a maximum of $52.65 more in 1975, for a new total of $824.85.

The self-employed will be taxed a maximum additional $71.10 each, for a total of $1,113.90.

At the same time, HEW said that an estimated 1.25 million Social Security recipients will benefit from the $120 increase to $2,520 in outside earnings that will be allowed without a decrease in benefits.

Any earnings over $2,520 will result in the loss of 50 cents in Social Security payments for every $1 earned. But full benefits will be paid for any month in which the recipient earned less than $210.

HEW said there will be no change in the present Social Security tax rates of 5.85% each for employees and employers, and 7.9% for the self-employed.

The larger wage base for taxes is expected to bring in an additional $1.8 billion next year.

"In return for the increase in taxes," HEW Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger said in a statement, "these affected workers will have greater protection because a larger amount of their earnings will be credited toward benefits than before."

"This will mean higher benefits for them and their families in the event of retirement, disability or death, than would have been possible without an increase in the base," he said.

The increases take effect automatically under a formula provided in Social Security amendments enacted in 1972 and 1973.

"The formula is designed to keep both the contribution and benefit base, and the retirement test exempt amount, up to date as average wage levels rise throughout the nation," Weinberger said.

He noted that Social Security benefits were raised 11 per cent earlier this year, automatically kicking in the increases.

Bethlehem Steel Has Record Profits

Bethlehem, Pa. (AP) — Bethlehem Steel Corp reported Wednesday profits for the first nine months of this year were the largest in its history and said earnings must continue to improve "to support expansion of facilities and to meet customer demands."

The nation's No. 2 steel producer reported earnings of $220.4 million or $5.06 a share for the January-September period, which was 45 per cent higher than last year's $154.5 million or $3.52 a share.

Third quarter profits also reached a new high, $107 million or $2.47 a share, nearly doubling last year's earnings of $56 million or $1.29 a share, which had been the largest July-September period in Bethlehem history.

Bethlehem sales reached $3.96 billion for the nine months, compared to $3.08 billion for the similar 1973 period.

For the third quarter sales totaled $1.48 billion compared to $1.07 billion a year ago. U.S. Steel Corp., the nation's top steelmaker, announced similar record profits Tuesday.

Lewis W. Foy, board chairman for Bethlehem, acknowledged inflation was a major factor in the sharp rise. He said the nine-month profits "would not be a record if expressed in dollars of equivalent purchasing power for past periods."

"The increase in net income this year reflects the continuing strong demand for steel products and the increases in selling prices which became effective in the third quarter," Foy said.

King Says Arabs To Let Oil Flow

Rabat, Morocco (AP) — Arab nations have decided to keep oil flowing to the West and not to turn off the pipeline to enforce diplomatic aims, Morocco's King Hassan II declared Wednesday on behalf of the Arab League.

The oil is flowing regularly, and from it flows a colossal revenue, he said, indicating at a news conference that halting the oil outflow would be self-defeating since it would dry up the immense flow of Western funds.

Detailing decision of the just-completed Arab summit, he said the unprecedented security precautions were due to fears the summit might be used by enemies of the oil producers for a terrorist attack.

Hassan said the West would run up a $50 billion trade deficit and the Arabs a $50-billion surplus this year.

"The United States, because of its economic difficulties and inflation, will no longer be able to go on bailing out Israel financially," he said.

He urged Israel and the United States to accept the Arab summit's decision to set up an independent Palestine under the leadership of the Palestine Liberation Organization-PLO.

President Talks Tough To Cabinet

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford was quoted as talking tough to his Cabinet Wednesday in urging that they promptly push legislation and take administrative action to carry out his economic program.

Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Ford told the session: "I will hold every department responsible. You have the ball. You must carry the ball and if you don't score, it's your fault."

After that, Nessen reported, affected Cabinet members reported in turn on their efforts at carrying the ball.

Ford Profits Dip; Productivity Slips

By United Press International
Ford Motor Co Wednesday said its profits were cut in half, and the U.S. Department of Labor said the nation's worker productivity slumped at an annual rate of 3% in the last quarter.

One economist said the continuing decline of output per man hour, along with a continuing lack of growth in the gross national product, will convince business to reduce costs by idling even more workers.

Ford Chairman Henry Ford II and President Lee Iacocca said the No. 2 automaker would have to cut costs because of its sagging profits.

They said Ford's profits were down from $95 million to $47 million during the third quarter — the worst in seven years — despite record sales.

GM Earnings Dip 94%
Earlier General Motors reported a 94% decline in earnings and Chrysler Corp. said it lost $8 million.

For the first nine months of the year, profits of the big three automakers were down 72.4% and the lowest since 1961.

The auto industry is closely watched as a barometer of the economy because it directly or indirectly is responsible for the employment of one out of every six workers in the nation's labor force, is heavily dependent on other industries for materials and is an important index of consumer attitudes about purchases.

In Washington, Labor Undersecretary Richard R. Schubert said lower productivity should not produce conflict between labor and management. He said management often is as responsible as workers for lower output.

Irwin L. Kellner, vice president and economist for New York's Manufacturers Hanover Bank, said that "increased productivity is the way to offset higher costs of manpower, machinery and materials and is vital at this time of high inflation, so a decline in productivity, which has been going on for more than a year, is a very serious blow to efforts to turn the corner of inflation."

Massive layoffs will "produce rising unemployment but also serve to improve productivity, and as productivity improves, inflationary pressures will be reduced," he said.

Protests mounted against the heavy price being paid by consumers and breadwinners in higher prices and heavy unemployment.

In Detroit, the NAACP and the United Auto Workers brought pressure against Chrysler Corp. to keep its giant Jefferson Avenue assembly plant open at least one-shift a day. Chrysler, which lost $8 million in the last quarter, said it will close the 67-year old facility unless car sales improve.

UAW Vice President Douglas Fraser said after a two-hour meeting with Chrysler officials chances do not "look good" to save the plant and some 5,100 jobs, many of them held by young, black workers.

"How long can we allow corporate irresponsibility to irreparably harm our people and our city?" the NAACP asked.

"Plain Ripoff"

In Chicago, a dozen housewives shouted down Department of Agriculture officials trying to explain a new beef grading system that would classify more meat as prime. "This is like calling some boys men and telling everybody there will be more men," one woman shouted. Others called it a "plain ripoff of the consumer" and said it would mean less beef for more money.

In other economic developments:

—The Wall Street Journal said its tabulation of 578 companies showed corporate profits were up 29.6% overall. Steel industry profits continued to rise.

—The Labor Department reported that bigger and longer strikes in the first nine months of 1974 resulted in 38 million days of idleness in the nation's work force, the worst since 1970.

Food Prices Reported No.1 Inflation Cause

Washington (UPI) — The Federal Reserve said Wednesday food prices have been the primary cause of inflation in the United States and six other major industrial nations for the past 15 months.

It said rising oil prices had helped drive inflation even higher, but that oil was not the chief cause.

"Higher food prices in major industrial countries accounted for from about one-fifth to almost one-half of the over-all rise in consumer prices" from June 1973 to September 1974, the Federal Reserve said in a monthly report.

Alioto Takes Bus To Work

San Francisco (UPI) — San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto took the bus to work Wednesday as part of his personal plan to reduce the use of cars by the city's community.

Alioto launched an "always on Wednesday" public transportation drive for government workers by catching the No. 36 bus line near his home and transferring to a trolley bus that took him to City Hall. The trip took about half an hour, compared with a normal 10 minutes by city-owned limousine.

"In comparison, according to estimates made by the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development, the price increases resulting from higher petroleum prices may have accounted for about one-fifth of the over-all increase in consumer prices as a whole from September 1973 to March 1974," it said.

Since March, it added, the inflationary impact of oil on utility bills may have raised its contribution to over-all inflation to one-fourth. But the Federal Reserve said "the effect of the large increases in food prices has been even more important."

Of the seven major industrial nations in the non-Communist world, Japan has suffered the worst consumer inflation in recent months with about half of the increase resulting from higher food prices.

Germany has the lowest consumer inflation rate — about 7% — followed by Canada and the United States — about 12%.

The Federal Reserve said wholesale prices of raw materials, especially steel and fibers, are coming down, indicating that the rate of inflation in the largest industrial nations may begin to abate.

MR. TWEEDY by Ned Riddle
"Hold up a second, Irma. Watch the cute way Tweedy's nose twitches when he's taking his afternoon nap."

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE - Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
S L O N G F E L L O W
One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

OFF THE RECORD by Ed Reed
"I don't want to rush you into doing anything around the house, but it's been three months since you sprained your wrist opening that jar of olives."
